President Spends Weekend at Home of Son, Elliot

STOPS AT AMARILLO Texas Addresses Believed of Minor Political Import

Fort Worth, Texas.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, refreshed after a weekend at the ranch home of his son, Elliott, 10 miles southwest of here, left Fort Worth at 10:01 a. m. (C.S.T.) today for Wichita Falls and Amarillo.

Accompanied by his son and daughter-in-law, Ruth, the president made a long walk from the station platform to his train.

Several representatives, and Senator Tom Connally and Governor James V. Allred boarded the presidential train to ride to Amarillo.

From Elliott's ranch 10 miles southwest, the president rode through the city, smiling to thousands who lined the walks and hung out of office building windows.

A typical west Texas broad brimmed hat was worn by the president—temporarily discarding the familiar panama. It caught the fancy of the big crowd gathered on the fringe of the plains country. Elliott wore a similar hat.

On Way to Coast

Resting by "a nice quiet family day" at this one-time frontier outpost, President Roosevelt routed his train through the Texas panhandle today bound for the Pacific coast.

He arranged three platform appearances enroute to Amarillo, scene of his biggest speech of the trip. Arrangements called for a parade from the train to Elwood park in Amarillo.

Taking with him Senator Tom Connally, Governor James V. Allred and a group of Texas congressmen, the president agreed to talk briefly to station crowds at Wichita Falls, Childress and Clarendon.

The president in an extemporaneous radio address to Texans last evening hinted that his remarks in this state would lack the political significance of earlier speeches in Ohio, Kentucky, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

No Senatorial Race

In those states, Mr. Roosevelt gave indications he wished the renomination of Senators Robert J. Bulkley, Alben W. Barkley, Hattie W. Caraway and Elmer Thomas. Texas has no senatorial election this year.

The president's friendly radio talk suggested the Lone Star State needed more industries but should not get them by the route of cheap wages.

"Cheap wages mean low standards of living and that means low taxable values and therefore difficulty in maintaining good schools, highways, sanitation and other public improvements," he said.

He also told of his interest in agriculture—that one of the objectives of his administration was better land use and an all-weather crop program, adding this could not be accomplished along state lines.

Seeks National Program

"That is way, since I have been in Washington," the president asserted, "I have been working on the agricultural and cattle program from a national angle."

Complimenting Texas as "a great state in itself"—for cooperation in "working out mutual national problems, Mr. Roosevelt said "in this way we will get away from spotty prosperity and work towards universal prosperity."

The president's overnight stop here was the only one of his cross-country tour. Pushing on through Colorado, Utah and Nevada, he will be on his train every night until he reaches San Diego, Calif., Saturday to board the cruiser which is to take him to a fishing jaunt in the vicinity of the equator.

14 Persons are Hurt, Two Seriously, as Circus Tent Falls in Sudden Storm

1,000 Under 'Big Top' When Accident Occurs at Neenah

RIGGER IS INJURED Wind Flings Canvas Over Heads of Crowd In Main Section

At least 14 persons were injured, two seriously, when the "big top" of the Tom Mix circus was blown over by a freak wind at 8:45 Sunday night while 1,000 persons were watching the performance at Laudan park.

The injured were:

Willard Drummond, 28, Celina, Ohio, tent rigger, both arms broken, fingers dislocated and head injured.

Otto Borreson, 74, Main street, Neenah, fracture of right ankle.

Alderman Richard C'Brien, 415 W. North Water street, Neenah, head injury and cuts about face.

Harold Smith, 240 Broadstreet, Menasha, back injury and possible internal injuries.

George Hoffman, 12, 649 Bay View avenue, Neenah, head injury.

Mrs. Ben Hart, N. Commercial street, Neenah, both legs injured.

Ben Hart, N. Commercial street, Neenah, shoulder and back injuries.

Mrs. Earl Miller, 715 N. Appleton street, Appleton, bruise.

Robert Waltham, 927 E. Eldorado street, Appleton, abrasions.

Mrs. Wilmer A. Krueger, 818 E. Pacific street, Appleton, cut on leg.

Miss Minerva Burr, 55, Oshkosh, back injury and right leg injury.

Benjamin Bondrud, 17, Dale, Wis., severe cut over right eye.

John Agee, circus equestrian director, head injury.

Joseph Rosselli, chief usher, body injuries.

Little more than half way through the performance, the gale, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, struck the "big top." The rain drove straight down upon the tent for a few seconds and then the gale, sweeping out of the northeast, lifted the north section of the tent over the heads of the spectators, carrying the front north part of the canvas half the length of the tent. The south part of the tent remained upright for a few seconds, and then slowly collapsed.

More than 600 persons were seated in the north section, but the wind flung the canvas over their heads. The remainder of the crowd, seated in the south and east sections, had time to scramble under the canvas and escape before the tent completely collapsed. Some, however, crawled through holes in the canvas which were cut by circus employees.

Although the people were frightened and excited, there was no panic. No one was reported trampled upon as the spectators rushed clear of the tent and those injured were struck by falling poles.

Trick Horse Dies

Freddie, a trick horse valued at $1,200, was struck on the back by a falling pole and died at the stables of a veterinarian today. Of the 13 other horses performing in the ring, some were buried under canvas but were unhurt. Workmen cut the canvas to release them.

The circus arrived in Neenah early Sunday morning, giving performances in the afternoon and evening. The evening performance nearly was half finished when the accident occurred. The show was brought to Neenah under the auspices of the James P. Hawley post, American Legion, which is sponsoring the show to raise funds with which to send the Oriental band to the state convention at Ashland in August.

Drummond received the most severe injuries. He was up in the rigging in the top of the tent when it collapsed.

Damage of $2,000

The damage to the circus will not exceed $2,000. Tom Mix estimated the damage. The greatest damage was done to the rigging when the top of the tent buckled. The torn

SETS RECORD IN HOP TO PARIS

Cutting Lindbergh's time by more than half, Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman and former movie producer, and four companions landed in Paris this morning, 16 hours and 55 minutes after their takeoff from New York. Bad weather and slight damage to their monoplane delayed their flight to Moscow, the second leg of a globe-girdling journey, until tomorrow. Hughes is shown here inside the plane while mechanics were seeking to find motor trouble which delayed the takeoff.

Hughes Lands in Paris in Less Than Half Lindbergh's Time; Moscow Hop Delayed

Bad Weather and Slight Damage to Plane Postpone New Takeoff

Paris.—(AP)—Howard Hughes, after spanning the Atlantic—New York to Paris nonstop—in less than half of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's time, was delayed tonight on his globe-girdling flight by bad weather and slight damage to his big twin-motored monoplane. He announced that he would not take off for Moscow on the second leg until tomorrow.

The delayed start gave mechanics time also to straighten out a troublesome rudder control and a snarled antenna wire which had hampered radio communications.

Weather reports placed the ceiling at from 1,800 to 1,000 feet with a fine rain making visibility bad. Airport officials said unfavorable conditions prevailed from Paris to Berlin.

For the landing from New York the airport's official control time was 3:55 p. m., Greenwich time (10:55 a. m., E.S.T.), figured from the moment the propellers stopped. The American flier had hoped to be off for Moscow within two hours after landing from his record-shattering crossing, 16 hours 35 minutes from New York.

But at the last minute a slight crack was discovered in the tail of his plane. He estimated repairs would require three hours.

Hughes himself was at the controls when the plane was wheeled to the runway late in the afternoon preparatory for the takeoff for Moscow. But he wheeled it back into the hangar.

The airport's official control time for the landing was 3:55 p. m., Greenwich time (9:55 Appleton time) figured from the moment the propellers stopped.

Crowd Meets Mier

The American sportsman flier glided to an easy landing, taxiing up a concrete runway in front of the airfield where a crowd of official and civilian onlookers gathered.

Delays Decision On Monty's Claim

Judge Won't Rule on Clintonville Dispute Until September

Stevens Point.—(AP)—Decision whether J. J. Monty is entitled to salary as Clintonville's chief of police, a position held by P. M. Goeringer, was delayed until September by Circuit Judge Byron B. Park today. Clintonville probably will continue to have two police chiefs until that time.

Monty, 73, chief for 32 years, started proceedings for a writ of mandamus demanding that Mayor A. A. Washburn and city clerk S. J. Tilleson pay him a $125 monthly salary since May 1, when Goeringer took over the office as a city council appointee.

Monty claims that in the absence of charges filed against him, he is entitled to the office.

The defendants claim there is no proof that Monty ever qualified as police chief and refer to Goeringer's appointment by the city council as a basis for their refusal to make salary payments to Monty.

Attorneys agreed to file a stipulation on issues of fact, returning in September to hold arguments.

Mayor Washburn said Monty was demoted to a day officer because he was crippled and unable to drive an automobile. When Monty refused the new job, he was suspended.

Notes List Half Dozen Yangtze Valley Cities For Attacks

Shanghai.—(AP)—The United States and other foreign powers were handed new notes by the Japanese today urging them to evacuate their citizens from a half dozen Yangtze valley cities listed as probable targets for further widespread bombings.

Two previous notes, one a month ago and the other last Saturday, had asked that all foreign vessels and foreigners along the Yangtze river in the path of the Japanese advance on Hankow be removed. The United States rejected the first note and has not answered the second yet.

The new memorandum informed foreign diplomats that concentration of Chinese troops and military establishments in Hankow and other key cities nearby necessitated a bombing campaign.

A spokesman for the Japanese air force said the areas likely to be bombed included:

Hankow, the provisional capital and objective of the Yangtze drive.

Nanchang, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's chief air base in central China.

Sinyang, on the Peiping-Hankow railway 100 miles north of Hankow.

Yochow and Changsha, on the Canton railway south of the provisional capital.

Kiungiang, Yangtze river city where Chinese have constructed a boom 135 miles below Hankow to block the Japanese advance.

Seven Perish In Accidents Over Weekend

Thirteen Persons Injured In Eight Crashes in Appleton Area

FOUR ARE DROWNED

Two Die in Auto Accidents, One Fatally Injured While Diving

Seven persons lost their lives in Wisconsin and upper Michigan in weekend accidents, while 13 persons were injured in eight automobile accidents in the Appleton area. Two of the deaths occurred in automobile crashes while four drowned with the seventh being injured fatally diving into five feet of water, Associated Press reports showed.

Alvin Timm, Pine River, joined his wife in the Community hospital at New London Sunday as a patient instead of a visitor when the car he was driving was involved in a collision with one driven by Mrs. Edward Hayes, Waupaca.

Timm was on his way to New London about 11 o'clock in the morning to visit his wife who is a patient in Community hospital and was traveling on a county trunk highway about six miles southwest of Weyauwega when the accident occurred. Timm's machine rolled over three times before coming to a stop.

He was taken to the New London hospital where he is confined with a severe back injury. His car was badly damaged and Mrs. Hayes' car was damaged somewhat also. With Timm were his two sons, 3 and 9 years of age, who escaped with minor bruises.

Car Tips Over

Francis Hanes, route 1, Weyauwega, suffered bruises when the car he was driving struck loose gravel on the shoulder of the road between Weyauwega and New London in the town of Mukwa about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The car rolled over three times. Miles Wilcox, town of Royalton, a passenger in the car, suffered bruises also.

Five persons were cut and bruised when a truck driven by William Schlender, 34, 1407 N. Bennett street, and a car driven by Eric Wiskow, 24, route 1, Underhill, collided about 9 o'clock last night on Highway 47 just north of Appleton. Schlender's wife, 31, and a daughter, June, 12, were severely bruised and were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. Wiskow's brother, Albert, 40, Sheboygan Falls, and Louis Wiesniet, 23, Bonduel, occupants of the Wiskow machine also were cut and bruised and were treated by a physician.

A car had become mired just off the highway and a Schmidt Super-service station wrecker which went to haul it out also became mired. Schlender helped get the wrecker back on the highway and started out. The Wiskow machine also was going south when the crash occurred. The Schlender truck was damaged about the rear and the Wiskow car demolished, according to County Motorcycle Officers Ronald Decker and William Glasheen who were called to the scene.

Mrs. T. A. Maas, 48, 1704 E. John street, suffered minor injuries when cars driven by her husband and

Loyalists Speed Added Troops to Espadan District

Strive to Hold Last Natural Barrier to Insurgent Advance

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier.—(AP)—The Spanish government rushed all available reinforcements into the Espadan mountains today to form a human wall along the last natural barrier to the insurgent advance against Sagunto and Valencia.

Insurgent dispatches said the range had been "invested," but military observers expressed doubt that the insurgents had enough manpower to surround the mountains completely.

The range is about 15 miles long and 12 miles wide. The insurgents yesterday were reported still in the northern foothills, where a desperate battle was in progress.

General Garcia Valino's Navarrese troops, climbing great trails in the face of government machine-gun nests, were trying to break through to Segorbe, "backdoor to Sagunto," before General Miguel Aanda's Galician army could drive down the coast to Sagunto.

Segorbe is 15 miles northwest of Sagunto, where the Teruel-Mediterranean highway joins the Castellon-Valencia road.

Moncosar Captured

Insurgent dispatches said one of Aranda's columns had captured Moncosar, east of the coastal highway and about five miles south of Nules, while another had taken La Uxo, a few miles west of the highway. These two columns were said to be converging in a wedge on the village of Chilches, where the coast road begins to skirt the Sierra del Cid about 24 miles north of Valencia.

Meanwhile, the government was using all men not needed at the front to strengthen the fortifications both at Sagunto and Valencia, which the militia has been ordered to hold at all costs.

Valencia's plans to resist siege were reported to include fortifications on every hillside north to Chilches. Laborers have been recruited to build 20 trench lines in this area, running irregularly east and west between the coast and inland hills.

A government defense ministry communique said the insurgents had opened a new drive on northern Catalonia with an attack against government positions at Fuente de la Seo, in the long-dormant Sort sector of the Pyrenees. Government forces were said to have repulsed six insurgent thrusts, inflicting heavy losses.

Inquest Receded in Death of Ashland Man

Chicago.—(AP)—An inquest into the death of Martin Cubit, 31, of Ashland, Wis., was in recess today until July 21. Police were searching for one of other participants in a street fight July 2 in which inquest testimony has revealed Cubit was fatally stabbed in the chest. Cubit died in Cook County hospital Friday.

Testifying Saturday, Policeman George Rowder said his squad found Cubit, Joseph Sullivan, 42, and another man giving him a name as Adolph Walters, fighting with a crowd. All three had been drinking. Rowder said Walters, once released, again is sought. Cubit and Sullivan were taken to the hospital.

William Cubit, of Ashland, brother of Martin, said he came to Chicago in December, 1937, and worked for a while as a WPA hand. William said Martin was unmarried, and that his funeral would be at Ashland.

King George of England Reported Recovering From Illness but His Doctors Order Rest for Few Days

Windsor, Eng.—(AP)—Cheered by the fact that King George spent a quiet night, Queen Elizabeth motorcade to Buckingham palace today from the royal lodge at Windsor where the monarch is ill with gastric influenza.

Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir John Weir, physicians attending the king, examined him during the morning.

The queen packed her two daughters-princesses off to London yesterday and spent the day nursing her husband and administering the diet of milk his doctors ordered.

At Buckingham palace it was stated officially that the king's condition had improved but that it would be necessary for him to rest a few days. His physicians indicated no bulletin would be issued today.

It was his first illness since he became king in December, 1936, and there was some concern in England, although reassuring reports came from the royal lodge in Windsor great park.

The concern was emphasized by the fact that the king's recent good health had caused widespread gratification. Many feared when he strained to the throne that the heavy strain on his robust constitution, fact his never robust constitution.

A presentation party to have been held last night at Buckingham palace was cancelled, as was a visit to London hospital today.

The first signs of illness appeared Saturday night when he retired early complaining of a slight temperature.

He and the queen had motored to Windsor Friday night. The family spent a quiet Sunday. Princess Elizabeth, heiress-presumptive, and her sister, Margaret Rose, went to services along in the royal chapel Sunday morning before going back to London.

The queen summoned physicians from London yesterday but the illness was not made public until last night's bulletin by Lord Dawson of Penn, one of the nation's most noted physicians.

Warns Local Unions They May be Facing Disciplinary Action

Kenosha.—(AP)—A warning was issued to the district council of the United Automobile Workers' (CIO) union yesterday by F. J. Michel of Racine that Homer Martin's "purge" of rebellious factions of the U.A.W. may be directed at union locals as well as officers.

Michel, district representative of the international union, addressed more than 200 delegates from Wisconsin and Minnesota locals.

Making a pointed warning to Milwaukee locals in his reference to "rebels," Michel said disciplinary action would be taken against those officers and locals who have violated the U.A.W. constitution by diverting funds to George Addes, international secretary treasurer.

Addes was expelled from the union on charges of "subversive activities" and trial of four other U.A.W. leaders is scheduled for July 25 in Detroit.

British Patrol Routs Attackers

Total Casualties in Holy Land Since July 5 Exceed 300

Jerusalem.—(AP)—A patrol of British troops and Palestine police today killed 10 members of an attacking band and wounded many others as it beat off an ambush near Mount Tabor. Biblical home of the Prophets Deborah.

One Jewish supernumerary constable was killed and another wounded and two British soldiers wounded in the battle, waged in the village of Dabburiyeh.

This clash brought total casualties in the week's bloody conflict beginning July 5 to more than 300, alongside a road, hidden in ditches.

A large band, hidden in ditches, opened fire on an advance patrol. The soldiers and constables returned the fire. It was believed they killed two of the attackers.

Countrywide reports reaching the Jerusalem central police headquarters showed five Jews were killed and eight wounded in outbreaks of violence Sunday.

The second week of the Holy Land's newest wave of bloodletting found telephone communications cut over the whole of North Palestine, including Nazareth, Tiberias and other centers of the Galilee district.

Police and marines tramped the streets in tense Haifa. All Arab shops were closed. Night fires broke out in Jewish property near the Arab market area, but were quickly brought under control.

A 24-hour curfew was imposed at Tulkarm.

An Arab policeman was killed while sitting in a barber chair at Tulkarm. Four men entered the shop and riddled his body with bullets.

One Jew was stoned by an Arab crowd in eastern Haifa.

Armored cars of British mechanized army rumbled back and forth through Jerusalem, tensely on guard.

Looks Forward to 2nd Half of Dangerous Trip

Lee's Ferry, Ariz.—(AP)—Dr. Eliza Clover, one of the only two women successfully to defy the dangerous Colorado river in a boat, is anxiously "looking forward to the second half of the trip, sure we can make it."

"It should be really more interesting than what we have seen so far," the 40-year-old University of Michigan botanist said today as her party prepared for the float through Grand canyon to Lake Mead.

Meantime, a new expedition, organized primarily "just for pleasure" was believed one day out of Hite, Utah. Members are Dr. F. L. H. Lowe and Harold Harshbarger, Jr. of Princeton university and Dave Rust, guide.

The Michigan party prepared to take off tomorrow or Thursday.

Life guards said Welch, on his fatal dive, disregarded deeper water over which the diving board hung, and dove to the side of the bathing raft. Funeral services will be held Tuesday with junior high school classmates as pallbearers.

Senator Wagner Mentioned for Supreme Court

Capital Also Wonders if Far Westerner May Be Appointed

Washington.—(AP)—Capital speculation over a successor to Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, who died Saturday after a long illness, centered today on two possible courses:

1. President Roosevelt might select Senator Robert F. Wagner (D-N. Y.) or some other New Yorker, because the late justice was a resident of that state.

2. He might appoint a resident of the Far West, because that region is not now represented on the court. There is, of course, no requirement that the president follow either of those courses. In any event, he probably will make no appointment before fall, for the court is in recess until October.

The few political leaders remaining in Washington's midsummer heat agreed that Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly will choose a man of the same liberal views as the 68-year-old Cardozo, who had voted in favor of more New Deal legislation than any of his associates. One of his last major opinions upheld the constitutionality of the social security program.

Third Appointment

The appointment will be Mr. Roosevelt's third to the high court. Justices Van Deventer and Sutherland, both of whom had opposed many administrative measures, retired from active service, and the president replaced them with Hugo L. Black of Alabama and Stanley F. Reed of Kentucky.

Senator Wagner's name was heard frequently in unofficial discussions about a new justice. He is

Escaped Life-Term Felon Is Reported Seized in Michigan

Monroe, Mich.—(AP)—Trooper Harry Findlay of the Rockwood post of the state police said today a man held by Wyandotte, Mich., police, had been identified as Richard H. Chaplain, one of two life-term convicts who escaped from Southern Michigan prison Saturday by threatening the life of a trusty.

Chaplain had been detained on a disorderly charge by Wyandotte police Sunday.

Earl Glenn Sauters, who escaped with Chaplain, was still at large. Both men had been serving life sentences on murder convictions.

State police and sheriff's deputies searched the Erie swampland south of Monroe for Sauters. He was reported seen at four different times in the area. State police said all the persons who had seen the man reported his clothing was torn and wet and that he was suffering from numerous scratches and mosquito bites.

Lee's Ferry, Ariz.—(AP)—Dr. Eliza Clover, one of the only two women successfully to defy the dangerous Colorado river in a boat, is anxiously "looking forward to the second half of the trip, sure we can make it."

"It should be really more interesting than what we have seen so far," the 40-year-old University of Michigan botanist said today as her party prepared for the float through Grand canyon to Lake Mead.

Meantime, a new expedition, organized primarily "just for pleasure" was believed one day out of Hite, Utah. Members are Dr. F. L. H. Lowe and Harold Harshbarger, Jr. of Princeton university and Dave Rust, guide.

The Michigan party prepared to take off tomorrow or Thursday.

Democrats, Cheered by Roosevelt Help, Boom Fox for Governorship

Prepare to Battle Progressives for Control of State

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent
Fond du Lac—Confident that the New Deal and its chief will be able to captivate the popular imagination in another Wisconsin election in 1938, Wisconsin Democrats today had irrevocably fastened their destinies to that of the Roosevelt administration and are now priming their guns for the tall battles which they believe will demonstrate whether the president or Governor LaFollette controls Wisconsin politics.

By their clamorous admiration of and devotion to President Roosevelt and his works during their annual convention here Saturday, Wisconsin Democrats saved notice that this year they will precipitate a battle of nation-wide significance between the supporters of the Roosevelt New Deal and the LaFollette National Progressives of America, born a few weeks ago when the governor broke his six year allegiance with the Washington administration.

Endorse Tax
Bearers of the New Deal standard on the Wisconsin stump this summer and fall, the convention decided, will be Senator F. Ryan Duffy, faithful follower of the White House and Jerome P. Fox, Chilton, the youngest man ever presented by the Wisconsin Democratic party as a candidate for the highest office in the state, the governorship.

The Democratic party in Wisconsin is the Roosevelt party, and Roosevelt is for the Wisconsin Democratic party. That was the keynote of the party convention, and it was strengthened by personal and telegraphic assurances from Mr. Roosevelt's chief party manager, James Farley, that Washington would support the entire Democratic ticket in Wisconsin this year, from top to bottom. No delegate went home with the determination to sink or swim with Roosevelt.

Chronologically considered, the convention was notably unexciting. Delegates from city and town who arrived Saturday soon discovered that the party managers had geared the machinery to suit their purposes. Fox's candidacy was decided 36 hours before the delegates got into session. Duffy's uproarious demonstrations were artfully handled by postmasters and federal job-holders scattered through the audience. Until the final hour of the convention the delegates did little else except demand of each other over and over again to return Duffy to Washington on his record as a simon pure New Dealer.

Rebuff for Coalition
Endorsement of Fox as a candidate for governor was a healthy rebuff to those scattered county delegations who arrived rooting for the coalition choice for governor, Robert K. Henry. As most of the more observant delegates anticipated, the coalition issue was not brought to the floor, partly through the safe-guards thrown up by the regular leaders, and partly because Coalitionists decided at the last minute that wisdom dictated the better part of valor. A floor fight on the coalition question would have resulted in a rout for the Henry forces, it was plain.

The Democrats' official Big Four leadership, Charles E. Broughton, William B. Rubin, Mrs. George Givan, and James Corcoran, vied with each other in scoffing at the "traitorous" efforts to get Democrats to join with Republicans to unseat the LaFollette machine.

It remains a very good possibility, today however, that Mr. Henry will defeat the relatively young and unknown Fox in the party's primaries. Henry's campaign has been underway for a couple of weeks, and he has the benefit of the organization and experience gained from three state-wide campaigns for the state treasurer, two of them successful.

Fox was plainly not the first choice of the Democratic leadership, as he almost admitted in his acceptance speech. But other candidates seemingly were not interested in running this year. Fox, a job-holder in the New Deal's HOLC, will round out the ticket nicely in the new Deal campaign, although there were those who attributed the prudence of running an HOLC man during a period of frequent government foreclosures on homesteads and farms.

One big question faced Democrats today. Did Farley's remarks mean that President Roosevelt will oppose the LaFollette boys, and for the first time since 1932, lend aid to the Democratic state organization? Although delegates were pleasantly tickled by "General Jim's" remarks, nearly everyone realizes that Wisconsin Democrats have been a political orphan as the result of the partnership between LaFollette Madison and Roosevelt Washington since 1932. Democrats, however, are determined to assume that Jim Farley meant what he said Saturday, and that they can depend on the president.

Need More Candidates
While the party managers appeared successful in getting a gubernatorial candidate, they apparently didn't succeed in finding men or women for the other places on the ticket. But, observing the act of the Republicans a week or two ago before in leaving the ticket entirely open and inviting embarrassment when no candidates are found for the minor offices, the convention rather indecisively adopted the suggestion of its leaders that the executive committee of the state central committee be entrusted to find people to fill out the ticket.

That, Chairman Corcoran explained, when someone grumbled about "boss" technique, would give the people at home a chance to make suggestions on candidates.

In the final round of a convention of speech-making Saturday, Senator Duffy and William B. Rubin, ambitious leader of the liberal fringe of Wisconsin's Democracy, told the 1000 delegates that the rank and file of Wisconsin Progressives are turning up their noses at Governor LaFollette's self-appointed renunciation of the New Deal and his excursion into the national political spotlight with his new National Progressive party.

Rubin, who as convention chairman showed that he knows the tricks of gavel wielding pretty well, rabidly attacked the governor and his political designs and soulfully praised the deeds of the president.

In the face of European dictatorships destroying free government we find the governor of Wisconsin who holds office by the grace of the errors of Wisconsin Democrats, and who hung onto the coat-tails of Roosevelt that he might be elected to office, has gone mad with personal ambition since his visit to Russia, and has now proclaimed himself the Messiah of a new coming administration.

One of the stranger aspects of a strange convention was the hasty passing together of a platform of principles. In 15 minutes an ultra-brief set of resolutions had been presented, read, voted upon, and adopted.

In substance they contain the following:

Prideful commendation of the record of President Roosevelt, and the "splendid, courageous, efficient and patriotic services" of Senator Duffy.

Endorse legislation to broaden social security and unemployment insurance.

Advocate legislation to cure "existing abuses in the department of agriculture and markets" so that the department can function efficiently in behalf of the farmers and dairymen of the state.

Legislation to help the small businessman.

Endorse the Roosevelt national policy on labor.

Advocate reduction of taxes on homes and farms, and a more equitable distribution of the tax burden.

OPERATOR LOOKS OVER 'DASHBOARD' OF BOILER
An instrumental panel that even records the color of the smoke issuing from the chimney is one of the features of the new boiler which has been installed at the Kimberly-Clark mill in Kimberly. Pictured above is Myron Misinski, 112 E. Third street, Kaukauna, the operator, taking down readings from the numerous dials that reflect each movement and process in the mammoth unit. (Post-Crescent Photo)

New 900-Pound Pressure Boiler at Kimberly Mill Monument of Engineering

Seven and a half tons of coal will keep an Appleton home warm for quite a spell in the winter time, but it would last just one hour in the mammoth, modern boiler which Kimberly-Clark corporation has installed in its Kimberly mill.

The boiler, which has been in full-time operation for about a month, is another monument to American engineering, a gigantic, roaring unit that is automatic throughout and constructed in such a manner as to insure safety.

The 900-pound pressure boiler has a heating surface of 14,400 square feet and generates 170,000 pounds of steam per hour. It burns pulverized coal so fine that 98 per cent of it would sift through a 200-mesh screen. And suction pipes draw the ashes out automatically into a storage tank.

One Man Does It
Despite its immensity, the boiler is operated by one man, who watches two instruments tell him a great many things about the monster he is tending, even the color of the smoke that is swirling out of the big chimney overhead.

The operator wants the smoke to be light. When it is, he knows the coal is burning effectively and that the fire has the right amount of air. When the smoke is dark, he must admit more air into the raging combustion chamber.

All the operator must do to start the boiler is press a button. Propane gas lighters ignite the coal and the boiler is running.

Inside the combustion chamber the temperature is from 2500 to 2600 degrees Fahrenheit. At present the temperature is 500 degrees Fahrenheit and later on will be moved up to 750.

Mammoth Unit
The boiler is 62 feet long, 40 feet wide, and 60 feet high in overall dimensions. The combustion chamber, where red-hot flecks of coal sail about in a fiery world, is 32 feet long, 16 feet wide, and 20 feet high. A feature of the unit is the special chamber for burning wood refuse which is built into one end. This furnace has a daily diet of about 300 cords of wood.

Differing from the old-type boiler, this new K-C unit has little brick in it. Brick is used only for insulation purposes and the rest of the construction is of steel. Floors and walls are water-cooled.

Danger from explosion is eliminated in the boiler. When one part of the unit fails, the others stop automatically. Everything that goes into it is measured automatically, the coal down to one-quarter of a pound and even the number of pounds of air needed to burn the fuel.

Defense Attorney Asks for Several Trials for Waukesha County Sheriff

Waukesha—(P)—Defense Counsel T. T. Cronin of Oconomowoc petitioned circuit court today for an order whereby only one of several charges against Sheriff Walter A. Lisowski of Waukesha county would be tried during the present jury session.

Cronin's plea was made behind closed doors to circuit Judge Sherman E. Smalley of Cuba City shortly before selection of a jury began in the malfeasance in office case against Lisowski.

The sheriff also has been indicted by the Waukesha county grand jury on charges of conspiracy to operate a slot machine ring and subornation of perjury.

Cronin argued that because of the similarity between the malfeasance and conspiracy charges, he desired them to be tried before different juries. It already has been agreed that the subornation of perjury charge will be tried at a later time.

Oscar Nebel, attorney for six of ten other defendants scheduled to stand trial on conspiracy charges Wednesday, said there is a possibility a majority will waive jury trials.

Cronin also moved to quash the malfeasance indictment against Koskowitz on grounds it does not conform with the facts. But the motion was overruled by Judge Smalley, who ordered the selection of a jury to proceed.

The sheriff is charged with tipping off a New Berlin tavern operator before a slot machine raid. Opening of the trial was delayed 15 minutes this morning while the sheriff completed a shave.

Foxes Have Led Chilton Democrats For Four Decades

Y ou t h f u l G u b e r n a t o r i a l C a n d i d a t e H a s M a d e G o o d P o l i t i c a l R e c o r d

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — For half a century the people in Chilton and thereabouts have recognized the Democratic leadership of the Fox family. For just about that long Democratic state meetings, state campaigns, and the state government have known the Foxes, father and son. Today the Foxes are again in the state political limelight. A son of the sturdy Democratic oak, the late Leo P. Fox, is the Democratic choice for governor of Wisconsin.

Sometime this week Jerome P. Fox will begin his campaign for the state's highest office, one of the youngest leaders of his party. Modest, popular, moderate, liberal enough to please the liberals in the state party organization, conservative enough to satisfy the old-time stalwarts, Fox was nominated by acclamation at Fond du Lac Saturday by 1,600 county delegates who designated him to succeed Governor LaFollette in the New Deal landslide which they hope will engulf the statehouse Progressives next November.

Fox was nominated after a rousing nominating speech by fiery Gerald Clifford of Green Bay. "Are we going to be afraid to exercise our duty?" he challenged. "We want no political cowards," he added, declaring that Fox's New Dealish, anti- coalition keynote speech marked him as the most suitable standard bearer for the party this year.

Started Young
Fox has promised that he will "fight fire with fire" and youth with youth, stunning the state even "if I have to hitch-hike every bit of the way." He will cover the state "like a fine tooth comb," he declared.

The nominee, who remarks that he "cut his teeth on a Democratic campaign book in 1904," apparently grew his teeth at an early age for he was born March 26, 1904, about the time that the campaign of that year got underway. Born in Chilton, from where his father twice campaigned for the governorship as a Democrat during the years Wisconsin Democrats were repeatedly drowned in avalanches of Republican votes, "Jerry" was educated at St. Augustine's parochial school, Chilton High school, Notre Dame university and the Marquette and University of Wisconsin law schools. He won his law degree from the state school eight years ago.

He was an instructor in Trinity college, Sioux City, Iowa, from 1924 to 1926, and later joined in the exchange of the candidate's father, Chilton. Several years ago he became counsel for the Wisconsin division of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, which position he now

Floor Leader
Young Fox marked himself for preferment in his party when he rose to leadership in the state legislature in 1933, after a Democratic landslide sent a Democratic majority to Madison for the first time in decades. Fox became floor leader in the lower house.

His voting record during the Schmedeman term in 1933, and in the 1931 session, party leaders believe, will make his record unassailable when he tours the state this summer and fall.

At the convention Saturday 1,600 delegates stood silent for a moment in memory of the candidate's father, who died a few months ago. Present were the widow and a daughter, sister of the candidate, Jean Fox of Menasha.

Robbery Brings Trio Sentences

Circuit Judge Byron B. Park Sends Young Men To Prison, Reformatory

Marion—Three young men were sentenced Judge Byron B. Park in circuit court at Stevens Point Saturday to serve from 1 to 2-year sentences on pleading guilty to charges arising out of the robbery of an oil station operator here last Tuesday night.

Herbert Poppendorf, 26, town of Grant, Shawano county, and Irvin Wangelin, 21, Marion, pleaded guilty of unarmed robbery and Joseph Bozille, Jr., 27, Marion, pleaded guilty of being an accessory. Bozille and Poppendorf were sentenced to state prison at Waupun and Wangelin to the state reformatory at Green Bay.

The men when arraigned before Judge S. W. Johnson last week admitted grabbing Albert Potratz, 60, in the garage of his home and taking $48.15 from him, two of the men committing the robbery while the third waited in their automobile.

Sheriff Duncan Campbell, Waupaca county, and Frank Polzin, Marion marshal, arrested the men. Sheriff Campbell said the trio went on a "spree" in Shawano and Waupaca counties and spent the money.

Strange Process Of Reasoning in President's Talk

Speech to Kentuckians an Appeal to Ignorance, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt has made a curious appraisal of the intelligence of the people of the state of Kentucky. It amounts to a belief not only that the Kentuckians do not have the perception to tell the difference between Senator Barkley and Governor Chandler, rival candidates for the Democratic senatorial nomination at the state primaries on Aug. 6 next, but that people in other states of the union will seriously accept the explanation of Mr. Roosevelt as to his indifference to the outcome of the primaries.

The exact words of the president, as officially reported from Covington, Kentucky, are worth examining for the light they throw on the strange process of reasoning which Mr. Roosevelt feels he can employ on the people of Kentucky: "You are having a primary campaign for the choice of the Democratic candidate for the United States senate. Both candidates are men of ability. Both are representatives of the people of Kentucky. I want to make it definite and clear to you that I am not interested in any shape, manner or form in the primary campaign in Kentucky. I do not reside in this state—you do. You have the absolute right to vote for any candidate in accordance with the dictates of your conscience. No outside source ought to drag on you."

That's plain enough and definite enough. And if Mr. Roosevelt had stopped there, everybody would have understood him. But he didn't stop at that point. The very next sentence begins with the word "nevertheless," and what follows directly contradicts what preceded. Here is the way the president phrases it, in the hope perhaps that Kentuckians will be so swayed by emotion or the presidential presence as to forget the meaning of the words already spoken and remember only this part of the speech:

"Nevertheless, I have a clear right to tell you certain facts, etc." after which Mr. Roosevelt proceeded to praise Senator Barkley, emphasize the senior senator's "experience in all of our national problems," Mr. Roosevelt spoke pointedly of Mr. Barkley's part in drafting legislation and his "liberal outlook" and of the major part he has taken in making "the actual policies of these past six years."

Not content with praising Senator Barkley, the president then went on to disparage rival Governor Chandler, by pointing out that, "as a very young member of the senate, it would take him many years to match the national knowledge, the experience and the acknowledged leadership in the affairs of our nation of that son of Kentucky of whom the whole nation is proud, Alben Barkley."

Supposed to Forget
After reading the foregoing, the supposedly unintelligent people of the state of Kentucky are supposed to forget that they heard only a few minutes before from the lips of the president of the United States, a man twice elected to this high office, words such as these:

"I want to make it definite and clear to you that I am not interested in any shape, manner or form in the primary campaign in Kentucky."

It's quite possible, of course, that the people of Kentucky are backward in intelligence and cannot perceive the contradiction, but it will take a good deal of convincing to make the people of the rest of the United States think so. Most everybody outside of Kentucky feels that that state is one of the best in the south, even though the statistics do show that there are thirty-six other states in the union with a lower percentage of illiteracy than Kentucky has. Maybe the president figures that, in a state which ranks twelfth in illiteracy, the newspapers—which he is so fond of denouncing—cannot be read anyhow by a large number of people, and that the radio can reach them.

Appeal To Emotions
Whether or not the president consulted these statistics, he certainly delivered a speech which people who can read and write will have much difficulty in calling an appeal to intelligence. It may properly be called an appeal to the emotions as well as an appeal to ignorance.

If Kentucky alone were concerned, it would not matter. Whether the Chandlers or the Barkleys come to the senate is of small moment. But what is of importance is that a president of the United States expects the American people to credit all his statements on public policy and complex questions of fact in national problems when he taxes their credulity with the type of political bunkum issued by him at Covington, Kentucky. As the "head of the Democratic party," Mr. Roosevelt for the moment has asked the people to forget he is also the president of the United States. It is quite possible that, some day, if this type of speech is repeated, the American people will indeed comply with his wish.

Movie Land It's People and Products

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Every film player yearns for "the perfect part." Some wait for years before it comes along—and when it does they have to fight to get it.

Can you name the characters which these actors and actresses fought to portray?

1. Margo read a best seller and although she then was just a little Mexican dancer, she decided the exotic lady of mythical land was a character she just had to play.

2. Robert Montgomery had been looking for a way out of those smart-alecky roles when this sinister character showed up. Bob gave his bosses no peace until they let him play it.

3. Claudette Colbert had always been just a blithe little ingenue and was tired of it. She argued and argued for this part which her employers thought was too daring for a sweet young thing.

4. Fredric March had been enthusiastic about this role for years but first had to persuade some company to remake the picture. A great character actor played March's nemesis.

What's New at the Library

The man whose beetling brows and bull-dog jaw has become so familiar to newspaper readers during the last year as the famous smile of President Roosevelt is the subject of a new book entitled "Sit Down with John L. Lewis" by C. L. Sulzberger. With the possible exception of the president, more has been written in newspapers and magazines about Lewis recently than any other American.

Intimate glimpses are given in this volume of the man who once considered entering the prize ring to seek the heavyweight title; who was offered a senatorship from New Mexico, a post in Calvin Coolidge's cabinet and a chance to run for vice president on a ticket with Herbert Hoover; who turned down an offer to be the Will Hays of the coal industry and a $25,000 contract to lecture on the Chautauqua circuit. His taste in literature runs to Hindu classics and ancient poetry of Wales. The author while a reporter for the United Press covered the activities of Lewis from the outset of the CIO.

"Gadgets and Wrinkles," a book for yachtsmen by H. A. Calahan, is a collection of the ingenuity and inventiveness of the sailors of all nations and ages to aid in the sailing of a boat efficiently and living aboard her comfortably. It lists and explains more than 500 gadgets and wrinkles that have proved useful.

Travelers in Europe this summer could glean some valuable information from "European Summer" by Emma Gelders Sterne. The author and four college girls start out with the family car to tour Holland, Belgium, France, England, Norway, Denmark and Sweden, and the account of their experiences is seasoned with practical advice and Parodies on most of the well-known poems by such authors as Poe, Longfellow, Kipling, Thackeray, Coleridge, Swinburne and others are included in "A Parody Anthology" by Carolyn Wells.

One of the most fascinating women of her generation who lived nearly the entire nineteenth century supplies the material for a new book, "Fanny Kemble, a Passionate Victorian" by Margaret Armstrong. Born in 1809 and living until 1893, she made her stage debut to the applause of all London at the age of 19, and rose to great heights of fame and success. She toured the United States where she received a warm reception, married an American, Pierce Butler, and left the stage.

Her marriage was not happy. She was distressed by the treatment of the slaves, on Butler's Georgia plantation, and the publication of her "Georgia Journal" during the Civil war caused a furor and is credited with having had considerable influence in preventing England from espousing the Southern cause. Eventually she left for England and the stage, and later had a long and brilliant career as a reader of Shakespeare.

The dean of Tufts college school of religion, "Clarence R. Skinner, gives his own ideas and formulates a philosophy of liberalism as he sees it if it is to exist in the modern world in his book, "Liberalism Faces the Future."

CLOUDEMANS CAGE COMPANY

OUT WEST, TOO, ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER

"CAMELS AGREE WITH ME"

ROUND-UP TIME at the famous Pitchfork Outfit, 200,000-acre Wyoming ranch of Charles J. Belden. The picture above shows "Chuck" Curtis, one of Pitchfork's best at "heeling" calves. Exciting work, but it's plenty tough too. So "Chuck's" cigarette choice is Camell! "When I get dog-tired," he says, "a Camel gives a quick 'lift' to my energy!" And that goes for many another cow-puncher. For out west, too, Camel is the favorite cigarette.

Are Camels different from other cigarettes? "Yes," say smokers all over America. Millions know the big difference Camels make in smoking pleasure. Camels set you right!

CHUCK, HOW COULD ANYBODY SAY THAT ALL CIGARETTES ARE ALIKE? CAMELS ARE SURE WAY AHEAD IN MY ESTIMATION!

COW-PUNCHERS Curtis and Riegel certainly feel that there is a big difference between Camels and other cigarettes. Read what they say—at right!

NO SIR—I DON'T GO FOR THE IDEA OF ALL CIGARETTES BEING ALIKE. CAMELS ARE A SIGHT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARETTES. I'VE BEEN OPEN-MINDED AND TRIED 'EM ALL, BUT I ALWAYS COME BACK TO CAMELS. I FIND CAMELS AGREE WITH ME!

COME NIGHTFALL, the Pitchfork bunch sets out at Cook George Weller's chuck-wagon. Ken Stengel wrangles his guitar, while the boys vocalize that good old favorite, "Home on the Range." Camels plenty here, for, as Ted Riegel (right of coffee pot) puts it, "After you've tucked away a hearty meal, there's nothing like a Camel 'for digestion's sake'—and for extra-mild, tasty smokin' too. And most top-hands'll go along with that sentiment, all right. We say Camels the cigarette that agrees with us—all round!"

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic Finer, more expensive tobaccos—that's why we smoke Camels," say the men who grow and grade tobacco

Planter Jesse T. Hardy brings out the fact that Camel buyers take the better grades on the market. He says: "For years Camel has bought my best tobacco—paid more to get it. We planters around here smoke Camels because we know Camel buys the finer tobaccos."

"Raising tobacco is my business," says John Thomas Caraway, veteran grower. "Camel bought the best of my last season's crop, and they have for many a year. So I know Camels gets finer, COSTLIER tobaccos. Naturally, Camel is the big favorite with us growers."

New London—The championship of the first half in the Industrial Softball league hinges on one postponed game between the Plywood and Local 1107 which is scheduled to be played off this evening on a special schedule.

False Teeth Wearers Are Worst Breath Offenders!

"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities ... Recommend Polident

Plates and bridges soak up odors and impurities like a sponge! A thin dark scum collects on them. This scum holds germs and decay bacteria. It is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. And it gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, the powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter—plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene. Long-lasting can cost only 30¢ at any drug store. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and dentists everywhere.

The Eden-Chamberlain Debate

Paris, July 8. The differing attitudes represented in Britain by Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Eden are to be found in somewhat lesser degree in France and in other countries as well. Though it is true that the Chamberlain policy has more active support among the parties of the right and the Eden policy on the left, it would be misleading to suppose that Mr. Chamberlain sympathizes with the Fascist advance or that Mr. Eden is agitating in favor of a crusade against the totalitarian states. In their final estimates of the European problem these two British conservatives cannot be far apart. Where they differ is about the measures to be taken now against a challenge which threatens the whole British position in the world and the civilization of which Britain has been for more than a century the principal guardian.

Agree France, Britain Must Stand Together

Thus there is no difference of opinion on the need of bringing the military power of Britain to the highest possible point of efficiency. There is no difference of opinion on the need to prepare a defense against a sudden blow against London, or against a sudden incursion into France. There is no difference of opinion on the conclusion that unless Britain and France hang together they will, in the end, be hanged separately.

Though every effort is being made to find some ground for conciliation and compromise, to find some method of satisfying German and Italian ambitions and grievances, there are in responsible quarters no optimists on this point. It is clear to all that not only the actual armaments that are being constructed but the whole complex political play in central Europe and in the Mediterranean are phases of an elaborate preparation for war. And no one really doubts that if at any time the advantages on the side of Germany seem sufficiently favorable to Hitler, he will advance without further hesitation.

Contract for Bridge Approaches to be Let

The state highway department at Madison will on Aug. 2 award the contract for the approaches for the new bridge under construction over the Wolf river at Shiocton. Although the bridge already is under construction, the contract for the approaches was held up pending disposition of the old Rexford home question. The new route of Highway 54 over the bridge cuts through the property on which the home of the composer of "Silver Threads Among the Gold" stands. It was necessary to either move or raze the home.

Under an agreement reached recently by the owner of the home and the state highway department, the house will be moved to the rear of the large lot which it now occupies, leaving the former site available for an approach to the new bridge.

State Improvement Of Route 125 Sought By County Committee

Members of the county highway committee will go to Madison Tuesday to confer with state highway department officials on the matter of improving Highway 125. Improvement of the highway has been under discussion at various times in the past and attempts were made to have the state improve the road to give the city a southern connecting link to Superhighway 41.

State officials stated the curves could be eliminated and the road improved at a cost of about $35,000. The committee now seeks to have the state bear this cost. Mayor John Goodland will accompany the committee to Madison and several other city officials also may make the trip.

The committee will ask that the road be widened to 24 feet with a blacktop surface from the city limits to the superhighway.

WHICH BIBLE?
Mr. Gower, who has written other letters to Forums upon the same subject to which he addresses himself in that column this evening, wants to get the Bible back into the schools in Wisconsin.
He is rather severe with the supreme court of Wisconsin for what he calls "an un-American interpretation" of our constitution and accuses that court of "irreparable injury to our schools and the many underprivileged children."
Is this a just criticism? If so something should be done about it. Or is Mr. Gower following the American privilege of blaming the courts however right they may be? If so, something should be done about that, too.
We judge that Mr. Gower is what he calls himself, "an all-American farmer" and as such we salute him. We don't know anything better in the country than an all-American farmer. We judge also that he proceeds in good faith, believing he bears aloft a righteous banner, and we conclude thus because spreading the priceless messages of Holy Writ is assuredly a worthy cause.
But before Mr. Gower can make any headway he might to advantage become better acquainted with the cause of the conditions he finds and to which he objects. Back 50 years ago in a little city in Rock County, Wisconsin, the Board of Education determined to teach the Bible in the public schools. But it immediately was required to make a decision because there are different bibles. The board selected the bible it liked, a choice that was resented by a good many people who wanted their bible used. And that brought on a lawsuit.
When the case arrived before the supreme court that tribunal found that the constitution of Wisconsin prohibited "sectarian instruction" in the schools and it very sensibly determined that "sectarian instruction" meant instruction according to the rules of some particular sect.
But it did not prohibit the use of the bible in all its major teachings and instruction excepting as the constitution prohibited it, and the prohibition was aimed only at the parts in dispute, or, to quote the court the instruction must stop when it arrives at that place where it is "instruction in religious doctrines which are believed by some religious sects and rejected by others." Then to make its position doubly plain the court said:
"Hence, to teach the existence of a Supreme Being, of infinite wisdom, power and goodness, and that it is the highest duty of all men to adore, obey and love Him, is not sectarian because all religious sects so believe and teach. The instruction becomes sectarian when it goes further, and inculcates doctrine or dogma concerning which the religious sects are in conflict."
"It should be observed in this connection that the above views do not, as counsel seemed to think they may, banish from the district schools such textbooks as are founded upon the fundamental teachings of the bible, or which contain extracts therefrom. Such textbooks and extracts pervade and ornament our secular literature, and are important elements in its value and usefulness. Such textbooks are in the schools for secular instruction, and rightly so."
"Furthermore there is much in the bible which cannot justly be characterized as sectarian. There can be no valid objection to the use of such matter in the secular instruction of the pupils. Much of it has great historical and literary value which may thus be utilized without violating the constitutional prohibition. It may also be used to inculcate good morals—that is, our duties to each other—which may and ought to be inculcated by the district schools. No more complete code of morals exists than is contained in the New Testament, which reaffirms and emphasizes the moral obligations laid down in the Ten Commandments. Concerning the fundamental principles of moral ethics, the religious sects do not disagree."
Obviously Mr. Gower is not one of a class very common in this country who kicks out at some institution, the courts preferred, as soon as he finds something he doesn't like. But, if he will go to the trouble of getting a copy of the supreme court decision that can be found in a dozen places in his home town, and reads it carefully, he will not only agree that the court was eminently right but observe at the same time that his ambition to teach such eternal principles as the Golden Rule and many another which can be found nowhere expressed in such simple and yet splendid language as used in the Good Book, is not denied by the courts.
Then, when Mr. Gower finds himself on the right road, he may undertake the task of preparing a book containing everything his heart desires, so long as he does not get upon disputed ground between the various ious sects, and present it to the schools for instruction.

Certainly he would not care to open up the ancient door of bitter controversy that our grandfathers calmly and considerately closed when they wrote the Wisconsin constitution. And just as certainly he may perceive the critical place in our government occupied by the supreme court which enforces that constitution as it is written, without fear of condemnation and without favor to the many or the powerful.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT
The spectacle of Michigan's governor supported by many Wolverines petitioning every source of power to save their state from the "shame and humiliation" alleged to accompany the hanging of a hoodlum will hearten every plugger who may have lived off our land and our people through crime of violence.
Governor Murphy and his associates base their action upon the fact that since 1830 no person has been executed in Michigan. This is an error. Literally thousands have been executed by gangsters.

The petitioners claim they wanted to keep the state's record clear. They cannot. Gangsters won't let them.

The fact that this particular hoodlum killed a man while robbing a national bank and therefore became subjected to the death penalty under the federal law was merely his misfortune as well as his ignorance in getting tangled up with a national institution.

Wisconsin and Michigan may both be satisfied, as they doubtless are, without inflicting the death penalty for murder. But no one should draw the conclusion that such a provision of law was instituted for the purpose of protecting killers from a penalty they merit. The abiding argument that has supported the prohibition against the death penalty in some states is based upon the conviction of the people that more substantial justice results without it, in that juries more quickly convict and accused persons more often abandon makeshift defenses and plead guilty.

With the jury system, and with people as squeamish as they are, it cannot be denied that there are advantages in putting the top penalty at life imprisonment. But there are states, like New York, where justice more closely follows the English pattern, the guilty, regardless of the charge, usually find a conviction as their fate, and the death penalty follows as a matter of course.

There were some bright lights, however, in the Michigan situation. One came from Judge Tuttle who sentenced the accused and who declared when asked to petition the President for a commutation, "I have neither the power nor the disposition to interfere."

RED AND BROWN RACKETS
The McNaboe committee appointed by the New York legislature to investigate communism and nazism has taken sufficient evidence to present to the public a few tentative but very well supported conclusions.
The first of these is, says Senator McNaboe, that both the Reds and the Browns as they exist in this country are largely rackets aimed at obtaining the stuff sometimes called filthy lucre.
This conclusion is supported by an article just published in the Saturday Evening Post by one who attended Red meetings of every nature and observed that passing the plate and exhorting the people to give contributions was even more general than flags with the sickle and the hammer.
The mode of operation adopted by Fritz Kuhn, head of the German-American Bund and Earl Browder who leads the communists parallel at almost every point. Kuhn, of course, on his foreign travels visited with Adolf the Magnificent at Berlin whereas Browder dropped in on Stalin the Purger of Moscow and both contend that foreign-inspired principles are compatible with American citizenship and that if either disliked the orders of his European master he would disregard them although, happily, there has been perfect agreement to date.
When the Klan was going along at full steam some years ago its leaders wallowed in money. Suckers didn't die when Barnum died. And giving them a program that suits their taste from the demented Reds to the over-scientific Browns, with frequent promises of blood and power will make the hangers-on die down for their last greedy dime for the "cause."
The Reds and Browns are at least proceeding in the well-worn rut the Klan followed. Their principal danger is in the fact that Americans who support such a cause generally expect results within a reasonable time. When these are not to be found the "cause" will be abandoned and the suckers, of which every country must have a certain percentage, will stare around the horizon looking for another leader, another banner, another set of phoney yarns for which they will gladly dig up dimes and support the faster thinkers.

Dale Harrison's In Old New York

New York—The Louis-Schmeling fight certainly gave the lie to stories that people haven't any money. There was more wide open, wild and woolly spending around New York on fight night than the town has known, I dare say, since 1929.

It evidenced a great truth. New York is a prosperous city only by the grace of you and you and you who don't live here but who once in a while, drop in to see us. A good 50 per cent of the fight crowd was from outside New York. Texans and Californians were all over the place. There were so many prominent Americans around that autograph hunters couldn't begin to bother all of them and finally gave up the whole thing as an impossible business.

It is these people from the real America who show New Yorkers how to behave in a style and elegance that out-New Yorks New York.

There was Jesse Jones, Texan and chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. While the rest of us thought we were very fifty if we barged out to the Yankee Stadium by private cruiser, putt-putting swankily up in a taxicab, Mr. Jones and his party went out the East River and into the Harlem, docking and then strolling the short distance to their ring-side seats.

Those who flew into town from California and the south and the northwest were legion. Private cars on the railroads were commonplace. The man who sat in the box directly behind me came all the way from London, and expressed keen satisfaction even for the two minutes and four seconds of fighting. It must have cost him more than $300 a minute.

Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean came up from Washington with a party of twelve and her Hope Diamond. Someone was saying she paid $100 aniece for ringside seats.

At the Stork Club after the fight I was dawdling with a coke when two mysterious fellows approached the entrance and said Mrs. McLean and a party were outside and craved entry. They said that first she wanted to meet the proprietor, as she had a rule not to enter a place unless she knew the party who ran it.

Mr. Sherman Billingsley, the proprietor, told the mysterious fellows—who turned out to be detectives guarding the Hope Diamond—that he also had a rule and that it was to the effect that he did not require a formal introduction to his patrons; that if Mrs. McLean cared to enter the same as others—including Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Gene Tunney, and a few dozen other citizens of similar high repute who were present — he would offer no objection.

Mrs. McLean, her party, the detectives and the Hope Diamond entered. No one paid much heed. You would have thought the Hope Diamond was no more than a dime store trinket, so little stir did it cause.

Things were fairly quiet when suddenly there was a stir. Mrs. McLean had lost—Everybody thought, of course, it was the Hope Diamond. The butler has been bad luck to lots of people. But it wasn't that. Mrs. McLean lost her hat. What may sound anti-climatic, but I assure you that even when Mrs. McLean loses nothing more than a hat, it is something to ponder, because Mrs. McLean has a lot of other diamonds besides the Hope, and some of them were on her hat. That is a strange place for diamonds, but I've known people with diamonds set in their teeth, and that's even stranger.

Eventually they found the hat. It was a large hat.

Losing jewelry used to be a favorite stunt of actresses when they wanted to grab off a little space in the newspapers. It got so commonplace that city editors wouldn't fall for it any more. They would just say, "Oh, Yeah?" and go on about their business.

In Chicago a few years ago Ethel Barrymore reported the loss of a valuable bracelet. The reporters chuckled and declined to put it in the papers. Miss Barrymore finally had to insert a "Lost" ad in the papers. She actually had lost the bracelet!

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell
MORNING COMES!
Morning comes! The silver dawn
Is mingled with the blue,
And sparkling on the velvet lawn
Are jeweled drops of dew.
These are my gifts: the bird's brave call,
The rambling rose upon the wall,
And courage (that is best of all)
To see the long day through!

How I would miss the sunny hours,
The birds, the elm tree's shade,
The blessing of my garden flowers,
The summer's bright parade!
But still I could endure the thrust
Of circumstance, if Morning just
Brought gifts of courage and of trust
To keep me undismayed!

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington—From European centers comes increasing inside evidence that the war danger so potent only a few weeks ago is rapidly diminishing.
There are several reasons given by close observers. Important among these are the effect of British rearming, and the impact of her latest diplomatic gestures to cauterize the Spanish sore and to break down the Italo-German axis.

Another is the calming effect on Germany of plucky Czechoslovakian mobilization.

Less measurable in exact terms, but nonetheless important, is the horrible experience of Japan in attempting a quickie conquest of China. One observer with access to unimpeachable sources said the experience of Japan had an appalling effect on the ambitious schemes of aggressive nations.

It was just a year ago that Japan, one of the best armed nations in the world, engaged with more or less helpless, sprawling China in a conflict which all but a few experts expected would last no more than six weeks. Yet it is still going, and opinion here is that Japan would be only too glad if something now would intervene to save her face and her present conquests before she cracks.

Overnight Conquest?
Japan's experience has demonstrated to such interested countries as Germany and Italy, our informants report, that the modern day high-speed "sparkplug army" cannot bring overnight conquest. In spite of the airplane, the fast tank and gasoline infantry, a war can be prolonged to waste away nations deficient in the important sinews of modern war — raw materials and money.

The view isn't unanimous that danger is distant. It is reported that one American minister to a European country insists that the big tinny box awaits only the most casual spark to set it going, but exactly an opposite report comes from another minister and his attitude is more generally accepted here.

There are two other factors credited with acting as brakes on warlike gestures. One is the belief that, despite any agreements that might be reached beforehand, the next war will see civilian populations in cities bombed until their tongues hang out. A second is that every point of danger of war is so widely discussed both by the populace and by the diplomats.

It's Different There
With respect to bombing of cities, Americans might keep in mind that Europe is surprisingly compact and that war between France and Germany would be akin, for bombing purposes, to a war between New York and Boston—an hour's flight apart.

From the German border to Paris is only 200 miles, the same as New York to Boston or from New York to Washington. From Marseille, France, to Rome is 350 miles, the same as from New York to Pittsburgh, or from San Francisco to Los Angeles. From London to Berlin is 600 miles but German planes launched from Hamburg are only 450 miles from London.

Modern bombing plans could make raids on any of these spots and return home during the dark hours. Czechoslovakian guns could bombard Vienna without crossing the border.

WHICH BIBLE?
Editor, Post-Crescent:
An all-American farmer I appeal to you to use your influence to have the Bible again allowed in our Wisconsin Public Schools.
That we have civil and religious liberty is the hope and joy of every true American. Our forefathers, "fought and bled for freedom's cause" and we sing "My country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty." Our heritage is a Republic under God ruled on democratic principles. Religion flourishes and we have a free public school system, best on earth, the main object of which is formation of character as much in the Bible, Article I, amendment to U. S. Constitution reads, "No law prohibiting the free exercise of religion, abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." Bible is allowed in the U. S. schools and in most of the states. Washington said, "He is worse than an infidel who does not read his Bible and acknowledge his obligation to God." But in 1890, a Wisconsin court, to the irreparable injury of our schools and the many underprivileged children, especially those living outside of cities ruled the Bible to be a sectarian book and thus unlawful in Wisconsin public schools. Could that be right or just?
Webster, best authority on American English defines, under sect, "One of a party or religion which is separated itself from the established church or which holds tenets different from those of the prevailing denomination of a State." The prevailing denomination in America is Christian as taught in the Bible.
Then why should we accept any inconsistent un-American interpretation of our Constitution to outlaw the Bible from our public schools? do we have a court ruling prohibiting use of the Bible in public schools and a law that Bible be furnished for criminals in confinement as is the case? Better allow

What Is Your News I. Q.?
Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is four, 20 good. Answers on market page.

1. Who is this man who headed a recent investigation into espionage activities in the U. S.?
2. What two South American nations have disputed over the Gran Chaco for more than 100 years?
3. Did the National Labor Relations Board certify (a) the CIO, (b) the AFL or (c) a company union as the bargaining agency for Pacific coast longshoremen?

Your Birthday
"CANCER"
If July 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 A. M. until 12 noon; from 2 to 4 P. M. and from 9 to 11 P. M. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 A. M.; from 7 to 9 P. M. and from 11 P. M. until midnight.
A desire to have their own way will interfere with others' persons' happiness this day. Conditions conducive to making the average person seriously-minded may find frivolous remarks and attempted witticisms meeting a poor reception. This is a good day to refrain from criticizing or advising other people regarding their personal affairs. You may find your friends extremely sensitive, so be careful of any comments you might make about their personal appearance or actions. A spirit of thrift is apt to be very noticeable in commercial circles, which will cause a good deal of haggling and bargaining in the negotiation of the average sale. Social activities ought not to be planned too far in advance this day, for re-arrangements or changes may be necessary at almost the last moment. Circumstances seem to be ready to help advance the good fortunes of people who celebrate this as their birthday anniversary. If this is your natal day a new era of prosperity may be just starting for you. Married and engaged couples, as well as those going through the final stages of courtship, must be the Bible and so lessen crime and suffering and reduce burdensome taxes.
Very few parents but want their children to become honest citizens as taught in the Bible.
Matthew 18:14 reads "Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in Heaven that one of these little ones should perish." Little farm children included.
So in all love and justice to the children, have a heart, be American and help to have the Bible allowed in our public schools.

Personal Health Talks

YOUR VITE
Twenty-seven per cent of American school children have been found to be subnormal in physical development, growth or health, and of these over half were found to be malnourished. Right here we must remind the casual reader that "malnourished" or "malnutrition" does not imply that the individual is starved or does not get enough to eat. It implies only that the food is not adequate in all respects. A child may have plenty of sugar and spice and everything nice, including milk and spinach, yet not thrive or grow should have as much vite as he or she not get enough vitamin B, and enough vitamin D every day.
Dr. Barnett Sure, who tabulated the figures quoted, estimates that 30 per cent of the entire population of the country is below par from the standpoint of nutrition. Just as many of the well-to-do and presumably well-fed fall within this class as of the poor and underfed.
Physicians have known for years that infants who are rich are as likely to present manifestations of rickets or scurvy from insufficient intake of Vitamin D or vitamin C respectively as are infants of the poor. Ignorance in this country bears little or no relation to wealth. Where a fair opportunity to compare groups occurs, the chances are that the poorer group will show more knowledge than the richer group.
A hundred years ago the annual per capita consumption of sugar in this country was approximately nine pounds. Today every man, woman and child in the country consumes an average of a hundred pounds a year or more.
The old-time sugar was crude brown sugar still containing some of the vitamin B and some of the minerals from the sugar cane or molasses. The refined white sugar today contains no vitamin and no mineral matter.
Every pound of sugar yields 1,860 calories. Your two pounds this week will suffice to give you all the very considerable of each other's feelings this day if unpleasant controversies are to be avoided.
If a woman, you are apparently very unselfish, rather demonstrative in your affection and devoted to family and friends. You should be an optimist although inclined to be conservative in business matters. You are apt to be open-minded and unusually free of prejudices. You are, most likely, very practical when it comes to planning for the future. Through radio, theatrical, literary, educational or a specialized line of commercial work your income may steadily increase and your future be assured. Your matrimonial prospects appear to be most promising, with many indications that you will be free from financial worries, and enjoy many social triumphs.
The child born on July 12 is usually very graceful, quick of movement and mentally alert. The chances are this youngster memorizes with a surprising amount of ease. Children born on this date generally develop into men and women who achieve brilliant results through intellectual attainments.
If a man and July 12 is your natal day, you ought to have a very active imagination. An artistic nature combined with ingenuity gives you a right to expect some very gratifying results. As an inventor, engineer, horticulturist, author, actor, lawyer or contact man you may make a fortune.

Two suits are talking . . . Let's listen to what they say.
One says to the other. "Say, that Mr. Blank is too fine a man to go around roasting himself and the country."
"Yes," replies the other, "what he needs is a trip down here to see us . . . I hope he's reading this ad."
We do too. We hope that all the Mr. Blanks in town discard their blankly blank hot ideas and come in to see these cool summer suits.

Two Women Deny Bund Is Unfriendly to U. S.

Riverhead, N. Y.—(U)—Two United States-born women testified in court today they were members of the German-American Bund and that they believed it to be a patriotic organization, in no way unfriendly to the United States.

The witnesses, Dr. Maude Deland of Jersey City and Miss Caroline Meade of New Milford, N. J., who said she was related to General George Meade of Civil war fame, appeared in the defense of the German American Settlement league and six of its directors.

Dr. Deland described the Nazi salute, used by the bund, as "the old Indian custom of proffering your right hand outstretched and open so that whomever you are greeting, know you carried no harmful weapon."

Miss Meade said she was the wife of Adam Kunze, world war veteran, and denied, as did Dr. Deland, that she was required to take any oath in order to join the bund, which has connections with the settlement league.

The league and its directorate are on trial on charges of violating the New York civil rights law.

The injured told doctors and nurses at the hospital that they had been injured by swinging or falling poles.

Will Open Offers on Site of New London Post Office Aug. 3

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—The treasury's procurement division today announced that the postmaster at New London will open offers of sites for the new $83,000 post office in that city Aug. 5.

For each of these buildings, the procurement division wants a corner lot 120 feet by 170 feet, or an interior lot 145 by 170.

The speed with which construction can be started will depend, in large measure, upon the speed with which the site can be selected, officials pointed out, as plans and specifications cannot be drawn until the site is selected, clear title vested in the government, and the site surveyed.

Officials and onlookers rushed to meet the big gleaming twin-motored plane.

Lindbergh flew non-stop from New York to Paris in 1927 in 33½ hours.

The fliers were hopeful of completing their round-the-world odyssey within six days.

The big plane rolled to a gentle stop in front of Le Bourget fields main building, where United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt headed a throng of French and Americans waiting to greet the airmen.

Hughes said he was planning to take off for Russia "as quickly as possible."

And that means "one or two hours," he added.

"We had a fine trip," said Hughes. "We made it in 15 hours 31 minutes." Hughes, evidently figuring his elapsed time from the moment the airport was sighted.

French air officers stepped up to pat Hughes on the back and touch his hand.

Bullitt introduced his army and naval attaches and French officers to Hughes and members of his crew in turn.

Fliers Cheered
The five fliers, accompanied by the ambassador, went to the airport commandant's office after police succeeded in cutting a path-way through the dense crowds which were shouting:

"Vive les Americains!"
"Long live the Americans!"

A special ground crew took the plane in hand immediately after Hughes and his crew left it and began to tune up the motor.

Gasoline trucks were backed up and started immediately refueling. The first intimation officials had that the fliers were over France was a radio message informing Le Bourget they were about to land. It barely had been received when the plane's broad wings dipped down toward the surprised crowds.

Gas Not Exhausted
Hughes said he had not been able to check but believed he had 250 gallons of gasoline left when he landed.

Hughes was so eager to get off as fast as possible he refused to eat or drink.

He said weather reports showed good conditions on the other side of the Rhine and he would head straight for Moscow by way of Cologne, Germany.

"The airline distance from Paris to Moscow is 1,541 miles, about eight hours flying time if Hughes' plane matches its trans-Atlantic speed."

Forty minutes after touching ground, the sportsman flier was poring over weather maps and inquiring about conditions, with Ambassador Bullitt helping him as interpreter.

Rain, which fell just before his arrival, had stopped but it still was cloudy. The ceiling over Le Bourget was about 1,500 feet with a wind of 8 or 10 miles an hour.

Heat Cuts Fuel
A ground temperature of 90 degrees took heavy toll of the fuel, supply after the heavily-loaded rebuilt transport plane turned its blunt nose skyward from Floyd Bennett airport at 6:20 p. m. (5:30 p. m. C. S. T.) last night.

Three hours later Hughes, broadcasting over a national hookup of American stations as the plane plowed through intermittent rain squalls at an average speed of over 130 miles an hour, said:

"The heat has made it impossible for us to secure the economy from our engines we had expected. The ship is performing about as expected."

Rain sweeping through a leaky windshield added to the discomfort of the fliers during the first hours of the flight.

As the plane turned toward the open sea, Hughes reported an electrical reel in the hold of the plane used for lengthening the radio antenna had broken. A hand reel was quickly put into service.

As dawn broke over the Atlantic, 1,400 miles from the takeoff, Hughes expressed doubt whether the fuel supply would enable them to reach Paris but said he was confident they would be able to reach land safely.

"I hope we are going to get there," he added. "We don't anticipate landing the plane short of the other side, however."

The plane, flying between 3,000 and 8,000 feet, was favored by a tail wind that boosted its speed. Hughes is flying the 3,600-mile "great circle" route traversed by Lindbergh.

The rebuilt plane, freighter to a gross weight of 25,000 pounds, gave 5,000 spectators a 45-second reeling thrill last night as it labored down the runway for more than 3,000 feet before lurching heavily into the air. It barely cleared a patch of trees at the end of the runway.

Before the takeoff, the fuel supply was reduced from 1,800 to 1,500 gallons after Hughes expressed doubt the big craft—measuring 65-feet across the wings, could leave the ground.

The laconic 34-year-old pilot, a 6-foot 3-inch Texan who began a career in adventure by inheriting $17,000,000 when he was 18 years old, listener as Grover Whalen christened the twin-motored plane New York World's Fair 1939.

Rain, Wind Cause Damage; Weather To be Unsettled

Storm Last Night Floods Streets, Levels Circus Tent, Trees

The sun broke out on a freshly washed world today, after heavy rain and wind last night sent water streaming down Appleton's streets, blew down a circus tent in Neenah, leveled trees, flooded basements and damaged electric wires in this vicinity.

The sudden storm, springing up about 8:30 from the northeast, sent .6 of an inch of rain pouncing down on the city in a short time. The wind blew down six trees in Riverside park at Neenah and shut off the lights there for 10 minutes. At Clintonville, where the storm struck about an hour earlier, trees were uprooted and basements flooded.

Unsettled weather tonight and tomorrow, with showers due in the northwest portion of the state, is the forecast issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau. Temperatures in the northeast portion of the state will be warmer tomorrow.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the thermometer atop the old-Crescent building registered 80 degrees. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest mark in the city was 84 and the lowest 64, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 106 degrees and Duluth, Minn., with 48 were the hottest and coldest cities respectively in the nation yesterday.

The jury had found Capelle 30 per cent negligent and Marten 70 per cent negligent in a collision between a bicycle ridden by Capelle and a machine driven by Marten on Commercial street, Neenah, Aug. 3, 1937.

The jury found $300 would compensate Capelle for pain and suffering and the court fixed as reasonable compensation of $247.35 for medical and hospital expenses and $476.17 for loss of earnings.

County Board to Consider Change In Radio Location

Supervisors Will Meet in New Courthouse Tuesday Morning

Menasha—The Winnebago county board of supervisors will meet at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning in the new courthouse building with little business scheduled for consideration. Relocation of police radio station WAKE will be the chief item for discussion, according to County Clerk A. E. Hedke.

Other matters for consideration include payment of the per cent and mileage to board members, a few routine bills, and several petitions, including redemption of delinquent tax property.

The board will not vote acceptance of the new courthouse building from the contractors as the building committee has not yet voted formal acceptance of the structure. A report on plans for the dedication of the new building on July 27 may be made but all details have been left to the building committee.

No Library Report

As no information is available on which to base a tangible proposition on the proposed county purchase of a law library, no report is expected from library purchase committee of radio station WAKE was considered by the police radio committee of four counties at a special meeting Friday afternoon at Oshkosh. Plans for establishing the broadcasting transmitters for the station outside of Oshkosh at the Winnebago county farm at Winnebago. While Winnebago county board will meet Tuesday the other county boards, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Waupaca counties, will not be meeting simultaneously until in November. Final action on the radio station may have to be postponed to then.

Proposed plans for the relocation call for either both control equipment and transmitters to be located at Winnebago at a cost of $10,000 or else to have only the transmitters located at the county farm with the control room in the new courthouse at Oshkosh. The last project would cost $8,000 and would involve equipment for remote control. It is the plan which will be recommended to the county boards as it permits most convenient use of the facilities provided in the new courthouse.

Signal clarity and efficiency of the station will be improved by moving the transmitters, proponents of the plan say. Erection of a 1-story concrete building with new broadcasting tower at the county farm site would double the signal strength of the station, chiefly because equipment would be away from interference of various kinds.

Counties will be expected to share in the expense according to their investment in the original capital outlay. Shares under that plan would be as follows: Winnebago county 24 per cent or $2,720; Outagamie county—28 per cent or $2,240; Fond du Lac county—26 per cent or $2,080; Waupaca county—12 per cent or $960.

Council Checked Again in Campaign For Second Bridge

Highway Commissioner Says Traffic Checker Is Not Available

Neenah—The city council was stopped again this morning in its campaign for a second bridge over the Fox river, when W. D. Ryan, state highway commissioner, informed City Clerk H. S. Zemlock by letter that a traffic checker wasn't available at this time.

The council at a recent meeting voted to secure an automatic traffic checker in order to obtain a count on the amount of traffic passing over Neenah's lone Fox River span.

Mr. Ryan informed the city clerk that the department has 12 checkers of the photo-electric cell type, but they are permanently located throughout the state. The commissioner said, however, that the department is planning to buy a new machine, a portable type, which currently is being perfected. If the commission purchases the equipment, the commissioner said, Neenah may be given an opportunity to use it.

Recatalog 1,200 Books at Library

Made for New Card Index Since April 15

Menasha—Twelve hundred books at Elisha D. Smith public library have been completely recataloged since April 15, according to Miss Daisy Trilling, librarian. Some 6,000 entries have been made for the new card index to subject, author, and titles contained in the book collection as part of the plan by which the entire stock of the library eventually will be recataloged under the Dewey decimal system. The work so far has been confined to the collection of books in the children's room and to new books, both adult and juvenile.

The Dewey decimal system is a simple numerical classification of books according to subject and is named for its originator, the late Melville Dewey. One of the most important points in its favor as against the older Cutter letter system, which formerly was used at Elisha D. Smith library, is the simplicity of the Dewey system and the ease with which it may be used by library patrons.

The work so far has been done through the cooperation of all members of the library staff and has been under the supervision of Miss Gladys Friday, associate librarian, and Miss Jane Chandler, cataloger. The staff hopes to complete the work in the children's room by the opening of the school year so that the new and very complete dictionary catalog of material there will be available to both teachers and students. A planned program for introducing all grade school children in the city to effective use of the library and the children's room will be carried out during the school year.

The library staff plans to continue the recataloging project, a unit at a time, including the two school branches and the adult non-fiction and fiction collections. It is expected that the project will be spread over a considerable period of time, as the work of recataloging involves a tremendous amount of detailed technical and clerical work.

Mix Directs Rescue as Gale Sends Tent Down On His Circus Crowd

BY TOM MASTERSON

Neenah—Thousands of youngsters have been thrilled by the rescues staged on the screen by the movie's No. 1 cowboy hero, the "Babe Ruth" of the western pictures, but Sunday night Mix wasn't acting when he led rescue parties under a collapsed tent to rescue the injured when the "big top" of his circus was blown down by a sudden gale during a performance at Laund park.

Fourteen persons were injured, two seriously, when the "big top" was spilled while 1,000 persons were watching a performance.

As soon as the tent started to keel over, Mix dove into the crowd to help direct the excited spectators to safety. After those who weren't injured had emerged, Mix immediately organized a crew of his workers and entered the fallen tent. He rescued Willard Drummond, who was in the rigging when the tent was blown over. The rigger had both arms broken, dislocated fingers and head injuries.

After dragging Drummond to the main entrance, Mix and his men again led his crew into the tent, having been informed a woman was lying on the ground injured. Forging his way beneath the canvas, the movie's 2-gun man found that it was a circus banner bundled up and looked like a woman's dress. Mix and his crew also rescued several of the others who were injured.

Mix thanked After the excitement had subsided somewhat, Mix commented, "It was a merciful act of God. It's kind of cements one's faith, doesn't it?" he said.

Mix wasn't describing the unfortunate mishap which had abruptly concluded his show as a "merciful act of God," but he was expressing a profound "thank you" because the near-tragedy wasn't worse, which it certainly might have been.

Standing outside the main entrance while the performance was in progress, Mix noticed the approaching, insidious-looking black cloud coming out of the northeast. He asked a couple of Neenah residents who were standing nearby whether the approaching storm would be severe, and they conjectured that the cloud probably would blow over the lake, Mix said.

"I've seen storms in Texas, Arkansas and many other states, but I never seen one like this," the circus owner said. "Down there we have a saying, 'When the clouds come, the rain comes.'"

After the excitement had subsided somewhat, Mix commented, "It was a merciful act of God. It's kind of cements one's faith, doesn't it?" he said.

Mix said that Drummond, the injured rigger, was the calmest person on the lot when the accident happened. When Mix and his rescue party reached him, Mix asked, "Are you hurt, Willie?" Drummond replied, "Oh, yeah! A couple of broken arms, I guess."

Drummond's job is to stay in the rigging in the top of the tent while the show is in progress. When the tent buckled, Drummond was wedged between poles, ropes and canvas. He didn't fall to the ground, however. As the tent collapsed, he was lowered.

Damage to equipment won't exceed $2,000, Mix said. "We'll open on schedule in Green Bay Monday. We'll patch the canvas and mend the rigging which received the most damage." Within an hour after the accident, trucks were moving out of Neenah.

Double Services For Mrs. Horlick And Her Daughter

Investigation in Sidley Death Continues in Toronto

Racine—(7)—Double funeral services were to be held here today for Mrs. William Horlick, Sr., 88, widow of the founder of the malted milk company of the same name, and her daughter, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, 61.

The rites, conducted by Bishop J. Harwood Sturtevant of Fond du Lac personal friend of the Horlicks, were to be from the family home. Only friends and employees of the company which brought the family its huge fortune were to be present.

Mrs. Horlick died Saturday, the day her daughter was to have been buried here.

Mrs. Sidley, heiress to a third of the Horlick fortune, died last Wednesday at Toronto. At the Canadian city it was reported an investigation into her death would not be completed before Wednesday. A post-mortem examination resulted in a statement that death was due to natural causes. The attorney general at Toronto did not say why he had ordered further examination.

Forwarded Copies Of Will
J. Frederick Hollis, an attorney, disclosed Saturday at Toronto that copies of Mrs. Sidley's will had been forwarded to her executors, whom he would not name. Hollis said the will had been drawn up by him.

W. Perkins Bull of Toronto, at whose home Mrs. Sidley died, formerly was a member of the Hollis firm.

Mrs. Sidley's private fortune has been estimated at about $7,000,000 in addition to the one-third share of the estate of her father, which was estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Mrs. Horlick inherited $1,000,000 upon the death of her husband in September, 1936. The remainder of the estate was divided among the three then living children—Mrs. Sidley and two sons, A. J. Horlick and William, Jr., who are in control of the family industry.

Eckern, Immell and Townsend Speak at Milwaukee Meetings

Milwaukee—(7)—Park audiences heard addresses yesterday by Lieutenant Governor Herman L. Eckern, Adjutant General Ralph M. Immell and Dr. Francis E. Townsend, sponsor of the old age pension plan.

Eckern and Immell, appearing on the same platform, both forecast the present Republican and Democratic parties would lose their dominance in national politics and would be replaced by the Progressive party.

Immell said "a new doctor" must be placed in charge to set the nation on its feet. The new Progressive party, he said, would eclipse the old parties and bring back prosperity.

Dr. Townsend, on a different program, asserted the number of pension clubs in the nation has doubled over the last year. Later, in an interview, he said the new Townsend party would launch its national movement after the primary elections, and that it would be introduced in all states.

Dispute Ends at Richland Center

Employees Resume Work After Agreement Is Signed

Richland Center—(7)—Employees of the Richland Center Cooperative Creamery were ready to resume work today following signing of an agreement ending a four-month-old labor dispute at the plant.

An agreement, signed Saturday by employee representatives, company officials, and national labor relations board agents, provides that the creamery will desist from molesting any employees who have joined or may join any bona fide union, and that first preference will be given to William Lounsbury, drying room foreman, who was demoted from his $150-a-month job several weeks ago, and re-hired later at $85 a month. (Creamery officials had asserted the job was no longer necessary.)

The company also agreed to bargain collectively with the Teamsters' union (A. F. of L.) as the sole representative of all employees, and to withdraw its recognition of the Wisconsin Buttermakers' association, and to terminate its recognition of the organization as a labor union.

The dispute at the creamery has been in progress at intermittent intervals for several months, culminating in a quarrel two weeks ago when 500 irate farmer patrons ousted nine union members from the plant. The men were taken back to work after the national labor board threatened prosecution of the farm leaders.

Take-Out Double Is Important

BY ELY CULBERTSON

A take-out double exerts a vast influence, not only on the bidding of the doubler and his partner, but over that of the other side as well. In today's hand South lost a lay-down game because he did not appreciate that fact.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

South let out a roar when North promptly passed to what South had fondly thought was a forcing one-over-one take-out. Actually North's pass was sound and proper, whereas South's one spade bid had been a decided error. The take-out double interpolated by East had created a problem which South had not even tried to solve. Without the double, South's one spade bid would have been an absolute force and, as such, strong enough for his holding. When the double came, however, South was in the anomalous position of holding a strong hand but one totally unsuited to a heart contract. South could not afford to pass because, for all he knew, West might do likewise and North, not dreaming that South was void of hearts might well figure that one heart doubled was as good as any other contract. Nor would a redouble be fitting with South's 5-3-3 distribution.

This left only two actions for South: One, to take out to a spade, as he did, and the other to make a jump take-out. To appreciate why South should not have bid one spade, let us imagine for a moment that South's holding was: Spades K Q 7 5 2, hearts none, diamonds 6 5 4 2, clubs 7 5 3 2. With this hand South would be equally unwilling to play a heart contract, especially doubled, yet could have no fond vision of game in spades. His correct action would be to bid one spade as a clearly recognizable rescue and an announcement to partner: "I can't stand one heart doubled and think that we will do better in one spade. I haven't enough to pass and enter the auction later, therefore am putting this bid in as cheaply as possible."

Since this is the message conveyed by a one spade bid over a take-out double, it follows that South must take more vigorous action when holding an infinitely better hand. In the actual holding as shown in the diagram South should know that he will have a play for game if he can find either a spade or a diamond fit. Obviously, the diamond fit was there but it could never be discovered because of the inadequate bid that South selected. The Culbertson convention to meet this situation is clearly defined in the Gold Book on page 191: "With strong hands, two or more honor tricks, redouble with distributed strength, and make a jump forcing take-out with a freak."

South's hand was not exactly a freak but, with two five card suits and a void in partner's suit, should have been handled as such. The bidding should have gone:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

The jump take-out over a take-out double is a one round force. In this case North would not want to bid two no trump, but would make that bid as the cheapest available. Later, when the diamond suit came to light, he would raise because of his good fit.

Obviously, either four spades or five diamonds was a laydown, but a spade contract was not only dangerous, but difficult to reach.

Rigid Schedule Needed In Caring for Infant

BY ANGELO PATRI

A Clock is one of the most necessary articles in a mother's outfit. The baby's schedule must be attuned to the clock. A little child thrives best on a routine, the same thing at the same time every day. It won't do to say, "In a few minutes I'll feed him." He must be fed on the dot—when the clock it is time.

This is not being fussy. It is being wise. By doing the same thing at the same time in the same way the baby learns to live easily, surely. He looks forward to the things that make him feel easy and comfortable. So, feed the baby in the same way at the same time each day, and feed him yourself. That is very important.

The same person should tend the baby during the early months of his life. He grows accustomed to the presence, the hands, the voice and the manner of the one who takes care of him. He learns to love and to trust that person above all others—and, of course, mother should be that person. She is the one to establish this intimate relationship.

Doing the same thing at the same time daily sets the habits of the body. Properly trained, the body will take over the habits of eating, drinking, sleeping, eliminating at certain fixed hours, provided those hours are set by the clock.

Habit formation means a great deal to the mental health of a child, and I am praying that this generation of mothers will consider gravely the mental health of their children. Body health cannot be perfect unless mental health is perfect too. The health of the body has been largely assured by nature. The normal child is endowed with health from the start. He has within him powers of resistance and recuperation. If he is ill he helps himself to get over it, and with a bit of care he is well again. If he hurts himself he soon heals. But mental health once lost is not so easy to regain. We know that certain influences are bad for the

Try, Try Again Is Termed Poor Slogan for Matrimony

A learned Judge, after watching divorce trials for a quarter of a century, says, "There should be a law to prevent persons divorced three times from getting married again. Three strikeouts should retire the most ardent and determined seeker after marital bliss."

It should do more. It should convince these misfit marriers that either they are very poor pickers of husbands and wives, or else that they are themselves not adapted to the holy estate. "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again" is not a good matrimonial slogan. Two attempts is really enough. Three should be out. And no repeating.

The trouble is that we cherish the naive belief that everybody is fitted by nature for marriage and that pulling off a happy marriage is a task easily and simply that a child or a fool can do it. It never occurs to us that to be a good husband or wife takes an special talent for the job, such as would be required, for instance, for making a success in business or singing in grand opera. So when we go bankrupt in marriage, or are given the reason of our failure is generally due to the fact that we have been trying to do something for which we were unfitted by temperament or training. We merely blame the divorce on the party of the other part, and try marriage over again with the same disastrous result.

There are people who have a genius for marrying and who could be happy themselves and make even a grouchy or a nagger purr under their hands. But there are other people who have no facility whatever for domesticity, who would mess up any marriage and fight with Romeo or Patient Griselda. There are plenty of worthy men and women who should never marry just because they haven't the gift for it.

Among men, who should never marry, for example, are the philanderers. There are many men who know in their souls that they can never be true to any one woman. Every fresh face allures them. Every fluttering petticoat is a signal to them to get up and follow. Life is dull and flat to them if they are not engaged in some affair. They have loved a hundred women. They would love a thousand more, which would make no particular difference when they stayed single. It is only when the philanderer marries and his infidelities shame his wife and break her heart that he commits a crime.

The undomestic man should never marry. There are men to whom freedom is the very breath of life. They must have liberty to come and go as they please, or else they are miserable. To such men home is a prison. Their wives are jailers. Marriage is a ball and chain around their feet.

All right for a man to put on his hat and go down to the club as soon as his dinner is over or stay out all night playing poker with the boys or go off fishing or play golf every Sunday so long as he has nobody's pleasure but his own to consider, but it is pretty tough on the wife who is left to spend her evenings by her lonesome and whose only companion is the cat.

Nor should the stingy man marry. Wives are an expensive luxury. It takes more money to keep a family than it does to keep a yacht. The price of marriage comes high and no man should marry who begrudges the cost. It doesn't make for the peace and happiness of a wife for her husband to be always rowing over the bills and making her feel that he regrets the bad bargain he made in investing in her and the children.

No woman should marry who wants to follow a career, for careers and marriage no more mix than oil and water. The woman who wants to give every ounce of her strength and energy to making her business or her profession a success: who must spend much of her time away from home lecturing or singing or acting or chasing down orders, who must sacrifice herself and all connected with her to her ambitions, should stay single.

She is married to her career and her husband runs a bad second. It doesn't make a happy home for a man to have to pinchhit for a wife who is too busy to attend to the housekeeping and who is too tired and exhausted when she comes home at night to be a gay and interesting companion.

The woman who is celibate by nature should never marry. To her all men are excrecences on the face of nature that could have been perfectly well omitted; blunders who are always under foot when one is cleaning up; trouble-makers who track in mud and hang up towels upon the floor; monsters who have to be fed on roast beef and potatoes instead of tea and toast. The old maid wife's husband always wonders why he did it and she did it.

Nor should the unadaptable woman marry: nor the born boss; nor the woman who looks upon marriage as domestic slavery. These furnish the gist of the divorce mill, even when they are the best of women, just because they are not fitted for wives.

WEDDING COMPROMISE

Dear Mrs. Post: I have never seen my problem discussed in any of your writings, probably because it is not general enough in its appeal. I do wish, however, you would help me. If you possibly can print the answers having the same name. Would it be proper in this case to have the church invitations sent in the names of both the bride and my own parents? Ordinarily, I know that the groom's family has no part in sending the invitations, but I make this suggestion because you so often have said that wise adjustments are permissible.

Answer: Under the circumstances that you describe, it would be best, I think, to word the wedding invitation:

Mary Alice
to
Mr. John Henry Jones
and then in smaller letters, underneath your name:

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sims Jones

Since this line would be added merely for information it should be in much smaller type than that used for the rest of the invitation. My suggestion follows the precedent of describing the rank of lower commissioned officers in the Army and Navy on their wedding invitations.

Summer Dresses for Autumn Wedding?

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me frankly what you think of a white net bride's dress for an early autumn wedding.

Answer: In the early autumn

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

You've seen them, perhaps you are one of them. Women smartly dressed limping along with tortured expressions on their faces, or surreptitiously slipping off their shoes for a few moments of foot ease! All their poise destroyed, all facial beauty sacrificed for shoes that are in fashion.

Ill fitting shoes are the chief offenders to foot health. It is appalling how few women have good feet and rare is she with beautiful feet! Wrong lasts have deformed them, and constant constriction in leather since infancy has weakened their muscle tone.

Your Shoe Tells the Story

Look at the shoe you are wearing. If it is run down badly at the heel, if the lining is worn through, the toe scuffed or the sides bulging it is a safe bet that you are not fitted correctly.

To begin with, a good shoe has a straight inner line which keeps the big toe straight and prevents a bunion from forming. It should be wide enough to give your toes ample room for gripping when you walk, and the heel should allow good posture as well as comfort. Learn whether you should wear a long vamp shoe or a short vamp shoe. Choose a model with strong arch support and don't let style or color influence your purchase. Just any shoe which is pretty, is the wrong philosophy—in fact that is flirting with ruined health.

For general wear, I advocate a heel no higher than one and three quarters inches. The pretties, with heels three inches or more, should be kept for times when you are not depending upon your feet to get you there! Or for dancing.

Home Care Simple

Ignorance of foot care is another offender to foot beauty. Regular treatments by a registered podiatrist, or a chiropodist, are strongly commended if you have the means, otherwise you must learn to exercise your feet at home, daily, and give them a pedicure at least once a week. Walk around bare footed or sandal shod these summer days, as frequently as possible, and whenever you can (without drawing attention) sit with your feet resting higher than your body. Up on a table or the back of a chair.

If your feet are ailing, buy a comfortable pair of shoes and then send for my leaflet entitled "Beauty Through Foot Health" which tells you how to give your feet a sensible routine for foot care. Address me care of this paper, and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope with your request.

SIMPLE PATTERN

BY ANNE ADAMS

Here's Glamour to delight your best beau! And what fun this style is to make up! Anne Adams has made her simple pattern doubly easy to follow (and doubly enjoyable) with her illustrated Sewing Instructor. Who wouldn't feel alluring, as well as very smart, in the basque bodice and beautifully swirling skirt of design number 4804? Wouldn't you love to stitch up one version in a printed silk or synthetic, and another in a crisp taffeta? On the first you might put a few fabric-covered buttons, and pert, scissors-sharp lapels, while you catch in the sleeve around the arm. On the other, you might let the sleeves flow, and add a flower to the lace-edged collarless neckline.

Pattern 4804 is available in junior and misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards of fabric.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: size, name, address and style number.

Do you want to be a style leader this summer? Then write at once for the Anne Adams Summer Pattern Book. It's filled with hints on how to be cooler and smarter—how to look younger, slimmer, more glamorous—how to be correctly dressed for every summer setting, whether sunlit or moonlit. Don't delay in sending for this fascinating book, and make yourself some striking new summer clothes. Price of book fifteen cents. Price of pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together twenty-five cents.

Dangers of the Home

BURNS AND SCALDS

A few weeks ago, a railway train was wrecked in Montana while running over a bridge which was weakened by rushing waters. As a result, more than two score persons were killed.

Front page headlines and long articles described that event, and made us feel sorry for those who met their doom in that unusual way.

Some little tots are scalded in this way.

There is another kind of accident which we do not hear so much about—the home accident. Here and there, in the country and in the city, a burn, a fall or some other unhappy event brings death. Usually it happens to only one person at a time. There may be an item in the local paper, but that is all—unless the accident has happened to some famous man, woman or child.

If newspapers gathered facts about all home accidents on our continent, and added them together, they might have headlines like this: "77 Persons Die in Home Accidents" or "144 Persons Die in Home Accidents."

Judging by records of past years, about 2,100 men, women and children have died in home accidents in the United States and Canada since that railway accident in Montana. The number runs to an average of just about 100 per day!

Last year, burns and scalds took the lives of about 6,000 persons in the United States and Canada. Many thousands more were burned or scalded, but did not die.

Close to one-third of those injured were children four years of age or less. They upset (or fell into) buckets of hot water. They pulled pans or kettles of boiling water on themselves from a stove. They tugged at a table-cloth and brought down a coffee pot. They played with matches, or did something else to cause a fire.

Little ones suffer most often, but boys and girls of all ages, also men and women, die from burns and scalds. Here are a few safety rules I hope you will remember:

All boiling of food or water should be done on the BACK of the stove.

Never place a bucket or tub of hot water on the floor where anyone would be likely to stumble against it.

Never leave a pot of hot coffee, tea or cocoa where a tot might pull it down upon himself.

The safest home matches are safety matches in small oblong boxes, with no easy way of lighting them except on a side of the box. Knaving mice or rats cannot ignite such matches.

Never use kerosene or gasoline to start a fire!

Never keep oily rags around the house. Destroy them.

For Safety section of your scrapbook.

The leaflet "Famous Cities of Europe" may be had by sending a 3c stamped, return envelope to me in care of this paper.

Who Cuts the Wedding Cake?

Dear Mrs. Post: After the bride has cut the first piece of wedding cake, who is supposed to finish cutting it for the others? This is to be a big cake, the only one, and it will decorate the buffet table.

Answer: As a rule, after the bride has cut the first piece for herself and the groom, the other people cut their own pieces; or perhaps the caterer's man cuts the rest. In fact, if the cake has to serve many people he should cut it because it is very difficult to cut very thin slices of wedding cake. You have to jab the knife point down and then keep jabbing it across, and if you try to bring the blade down, as you cut pie, you are likely to find that it all crumbles.

OCTAGON HOUSE BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

Chapter 48
The Plot Thickens
A few minutes before nine that same morning, Asey slid his long Porter roadster up the Octagon House drive—so quietly that the woman standing by the back door didn't even turn her head. With a grin, Asey recognized Nettie Hobbs in the trailing black dress she reserved for funerals, and doing good.
"I tell you," Nettie said shrilly, "it's some calves' foot jelly for poor dear Aaron—"
Pam's laugh rippled out.
"Nettie, she said, 'I'm sure you mean well, but the last thing father want to put into his mouth at this point is a calf's foot. He can just manage a thin straw.'"
"I must say," Nettie observed aoidly, "I guess I know when I'm not wanted!"
"As a matter of fact," Pam returned, "you don't. If you did, you'd have gone straight home Friday night, and all this wouldn't have happened. It's a painful point, but very true."
"You're mad," Nettie said, "because I thought you killed your sister. And if you want to know, I'm not at all sure that you didn't, so there!"
"Oh, come," Pam said. "Would you want to be even the step-mother of a murderer?"
Nettie switched around so quickly that she nearly tripped. Her eyes lighted on the roadster, and she stopped her flouncing-off-in-imagination act.
"Oh it's Mister Mayo!" she said, walking over. "Mister Mayo—oh!" An odd expression came over her face. "Oh."
"Yup," Asey said, fishing in his pocket. "Mister Mayo. You can tell him by his car. When he has the car with him, Nettie, here's a nice shiny 50 cent piece, an' a nice shiny dime. Ordinarily I don't make no refunds, but this 60 cents has been burn'n' holes in my goppers—"
He held out the money, but Nettie fled. Pam strolled out of the house.
"Asey, what did you do to her?" She's simply deflated! She scuttled."
"If ever you have any trouble with her," Asey said, "just ask if she needs a good paint job done. Where's everyone, an' how's Aaron?"
"Peg's up with him now," Pam said. "He's leas' better, even managed to eat a soft-boiled egg for breakfast. Tim and Gran went tearing off—a telegram came. Some friends of theirs landed in Provincetown, or something. Good Lord, Asey," she added as he got out of the roadster, "what sartorial splendor! What—what elegance! I hadn't got the full force of you in the car. Ain't you somethin'?"
"Uh-huh," Asey said. He saw no need of telling her that Jennie Mayo had stood over him and almost forcibly removed his paint clothes, and thrust him into the white flannels, the while keeping up a steady conversation about his promise to dress up. "So Aaron's really better?"
"He seems almost himself. But I thought," Pam said, "that I'd better nip the calves' foot jelly in the bud. I mean, on the hoof—where are you going?" she asked Peg Boone, as they met her at the door.
"Peg smiled.
"Whenever possible," she said, "I avoid the house. Nine o'clock is going to strike, very shortly. I do wish I hadn't this complex about clocks! What about Jack, Asey? Does Hanson still have him?"
"Oh, Hanson's wanderin' around with him. I guess he's got his case, all right."
The clocks began to strike as he and Pam went into the circular hall. Asey listened appreciatively, and stared intently at the smallest clock, in the shape of a cat.
"He Drips Eyes!"
"Seems to of lost an eye," he said, knowing full well that the eye was lost, and where it had been found.
"That little one? He drips eyes," Pam said. "I've got an old evening bag, an' old yellow beaded thing, that I just use to replace them."
"Yellow evening bag, huh?" Asey said. "I hadn't got that far."
"Cats," Pam snatched on gaily, "are a sore subject here this morning. Emma Goldman went for Toots at last, and we rescued Toots just as her tail feathers were goppers—"
He was very ruffled. I thought for a moment she was going to talk—she never has, you know, since I salvaged her from Marina. Some Argentine gave her to her, or it to her—or for all I know, him to her. Look, Asey, if it's my hands you're staring at, don't stare any longer. I can explain what seems to be sore. It's red lead. You see, Tim and Peg and I had one last grand final hunt for the ambergris in the cellar this morning, and I tipped over the red lead."
"I see," said Asey. "Don't I hear someone at the door?"
There should be someone there.

Riggs Repeats as Fox Valley Champ

Los Angeles Star in Successful Defense Of Crown

BEATS SUTTER

Charles Hare, Elwood Cooke Win Doubles Title

BY DICK DAVIS
BOBBY RIGGS gave Ernie Sutter a 2-set advantage and then steadily through the next three sets to repeat as champion of the Fox River Valley tennis tournament at the Doty Tennis club courts at Menasha Sunday afternoon. Charles E. Hare and Elwood Cooke smashed the offerings of Riggs and Hal Surface to annex the doubles crown.

In winning the singles title, Riggs is the first champion to repeat in the 15-year history of the meet. The Los Angeles youth did it the hard way, however, for he started out with frequent attacks of "netitis" and couldn't get over it until the beginning of the third set.

Sutter, New Orleans star, played beautiful tennis to take the first two sets, 6-4 and 6-3, but failed to maintain the terrific clip and succumbed to Riggs' masterful strokes. The two put on one of the best exhibitions of tennis ever witnessed in the valley and the large crowd showed its appreciation by applauding freely and frequently. About 3,000 attended the meet during the week, according to Hugh Strange, Jr., club president and tournament manager.

Deadly Placements
Riggs won the first two games and Sutter evened things with deadly placements. Riggs came back to win the next two and then Sutter began putting them where Bobby wasn't and won the next four skirmishes. Sutter mixed his smashing drives with cut shots that squeaked over the net time after time for points.

Sutter continued his brilliant play in the second set and copped the next four games. Wherever Riggs went the ball was sure not to go and when Sutter approached the net it was just a matter of time before he made the point. Riggs took the next two games and Sutter won his next two serves for the set.

Both stars employed long driving tactics in the third set and Riggs won by a 6 to 1 count as Sutter began relaxing. Riggs started the fourth frame with an air of confidence and contested every point to win, 6 to 1. Long, thrilling volleys featured the set.

Sutter rallied
The fifth set packed a wallop with Riggs using every shot in the books to collect five games in a row. Sutter returned to his previous form and staged a rally that would make the stoutest of hearts flinch. During "Sutter's" last stand he captured the four games and seemed destined to tie the match up in the fifth but lost a valuable point when he slipped on grass adjacent to the court and served doubles on the final point.

Hal Surface, Kansas City, battered the ball viciously in the first set of the doubles as he and Riggs won, 6 to 4, over Hare and Cooke. Action abounded in the doubles tilt with rocket-like volleys highlighting the match.

The Surface-Riggs duo took the first two games in the second set but Hare, a native of England, and Cooke, who hails from Portland, Ore., smashed everything in sight to win the next two games. Surface and Riggs won the next and the Hare-Cooke pair rattled through the next four for the set, 6-3.

The teams quieted down in the third set and only occasional spurs were evidenced. Hare and Cooke took the set by a 6 to 3 margin. Riggs and Surface started strong in the fourth set by winning the first game but soon weakened and the big Englishman and diminutive Cooke won six straight games for victory.

Labor Squad Upsets Mellow Brews, 3 to 1

Labor 931 softballers staged one of the biggest upsets of the current season when they trimmed the Mellow Brews, 3 to 1, in a non-league tilt at Wilson school diamond Sunday morning. George Faulk was on the mound for the winners and Emmett Mortell hurried for the losers. The Labor squad scored its first tallies in the sixth frame while the Brews bagged its lone marker in the eighth stanza. It was reported the Brews strengthened its regular roster with Chip Mortell and Sonny Filz while the winners used their same American league lineup.

Cabs hurling ace, and won their first Fox River league game on the Spencer street diamond Sunday, 5-4. Brokup, Appleton pitcher, was nipped for nine bingles.

Both teams put men on bases in nearly every inning, but alert defensive play prevented heavy scoring.

The Becher squad chalked up its first run in the second. Cotton singled, went to second when Wonsler grounded out, and then scampered home as Van Vundern poled out a hit to left field.

Oshkosh picked up three hits in the fourth inning and, aided by wild-throwing on the part of the Becher infield, shoved across three runs to jump into a 2-1 lead.

Ripple, Becher centerfielder, cracked out a 1-bagger to open the fifth.

He went to second on Murphy's hit and to third when Mueller walked. With three mates aboard, Melv Pope walked up and clouded Kloiber's first pitch for a double, clearing the bags and setting his team ahead 4-3.

The Cabs knotted the count in the seventh, but in the Appleton half of the same inning, Cotton, Mueller, and Pope ganged up to bring in the winning marker.

Cotton smashed out three hits out of three times at bat to lead the Becher team's attack. The game was played in an hour and 38 minutes.

RIGGS RETAINS FOX RIVER VALLEY TENNIS TITLE

Bobby Riggs cut down Ernie Sutter to his size after losing the first two sets and went on to win the next three sets in his "uphill" defense of the Fox River Valley tennis tournament championship at the Doty Tennis club courts in Menasha Sunday afternoon. Riggs is the first champion to repeat in the 15-year history of the tourney.

The tournament, under the direction of Hugh Strange, Jr., club president, attracted a total of 3,000 net enthusiasts last week and the entry list included practically every topnotch amateur in the country.

Frank Walsh, Sarazen Still Stick to Knickers

BY SID FLDER
(Pitch-Throwing for Eddie Brietz)
NEW YORK—(7)—Tip: Watch for something to pop on the Dury Dean situation before the day's over. . . . Cubs' bosses are about fed up with the business and are talking it over at a meeting this p.m. . . . Voluntary retirement may be the outcome. . . . The Gene Sauter's late adopted a 19-month-old baby, named Mary Ann. . . . Van Lunde Mungo (remember him?) is taking mud-puck treatments for his ailing wing. . . . And is certainly out indefinitely. . . . They'll have to send a freighter over to bring Don Budge's tennis bags back from Europe. . . . The Czech championship makes the sixth mug he collected on tour. . . . Not counting the untwarc he brought back from Australia. . . . Virgil (Fire) Trucks, strike-out king of the Carolinas who quit pro ball to serve "em up for an independent loop at Concord, N. C., didn't stay in the new spot long. . . . T. H. Wingate writes from the Kannapolis (N. C.) Independent that Poppa Trucks came up to Concord and trucked him right back home again. . . . For which the Detroit Tigers, who own the kid, ought to vote papa a bonus. . . . Frank Walsh, the New Hampshire pro, and Gene Sarazen are the only two pros still sticking to knickers instead of long pants. . . . Walsh claims his legs are too, too pretty to cover up. . . . Suppose you've all noticed four of the top five hitters in the National league this morning draw their pay checks from the Reds. . . . Lombard, Berger, McCormick and Goodman. . . . Claude Passeau, the guy who isn't superstitious, changed his mind. . . . When it came up to the thirteenth inning in the Phils-Dodgers game Saturday, Claude yanked off his regular No. 12 shirt and put on No. 27. . . . And won the game in the sixteenth frame. . . . Folks at the P. G. A. tournament miss Mrs. Jimmy Thomson (the ex-Viola Dana of the movies) from the rocking chair squad. . . . She's in a Chicago hospital for an emergency operation and Jimmy phones every night. . . . Minor league stuff: They say Freddie Hutchinson, the 18-year-old flinging sensation of the Coast league, will land with the Yanks. . . . Keep your eye on a kid tagged "Sands," catcher in a North Carolina industrial loop. . . . Big leaguers who've looked him over say he's really got it. . . . The Browns are the only big league club who haven't yet hit the 100,000 mark in admissions for the seasons. . . . Even the Phils are in six figures. . . . One of the week comes from Lefty Gomez. . . . After looking over the Athletics ex-college boys, El Gordo piped, "There goes the Duke again." . . . Hank Greenberg has hit a homer in every park in the league so far. . . .

Sam Snead Gets Into Groove at P. G. A. Tourney

BY BILL BONI
HAWNEE ON DELAWARE, Pa.—(7)—Samuel Jackson Snead, the sweet swinger from White Sulphur who was such a bust in the National open, is ready for another bust—but this time he means to bust the Professional Golfers association championship wide open.

Samuel Jackson still is smarting from his disappointing showing at Denver, where he finished in the 300's and well out of the money. Since then he has gathered sufficient, and startling, evidence to show that his swing is back in the groove, that his putts are dropping, and that he's knocking those tee shots with all the persuasive power of a French 75.

Last Thursday he teamed with Billy Campbell, of Huntington, W. Va., to win the West Virginia amateur with a best ball score of 64, and fired a 66 on his own account. The following day, he won the West Virginia P. G. A. title with 18 hole scores of 66 and 67 for 133.

Three Under Par
Samuel Jackson came to the Shawnee C. C., a course he hadn't seen in two years, and carved out a three under par 69 yesterday in the first P. G. A. qualifying round. This left him two strokes off Harry Cooper's near record 67 as the second and final 18-hole elimination got under way today.

Sam is straight and he's tremendously long—as he was on the 342-yard fifteenth yesterday, where his tee shot just missed catching one of the bunkers that guard the green. He never was off the fairway, did not miss a green, and didn't have a putt of more than eight feet.

Two strokes behind Cooper at the start of today's round, from which Shute and the 63 low scores will go into match play tomorrow, Sam started in a threesome with two other pace-setters. They were Frank Moore, Genial Namaroneck, N. Y. par buster, who shot a 68 as his opening bid, and Terl Johnson, Norristown, Pa. "dark horse" who fired a 69 that gave him a tie for third with Snead and Henry Picard.

Both teams put men on bases in nearly every inning, but alert defensive play prevented heavy scoring. The Becher squad chalked up its first run in the second. Cotton singled, went to second when Wonsler grounded out, and then scampered home as Van Vundern poled out a hit to left field.

Oshkosh picked up three hits in the fourth inning and, aided by wild-throwing KAUKAUNA — Lefty Behr and Cully Zinth combined their pitching efforts here yesterday morning to give their last place Kimberly teammates a 6 to 3 win over the first place Kaukauna Brewers in a postponed Northern State league battle. As Two Rivers downed Seymour in another morning game the two clubs are now knotted for first place, each with ten wins and four defeats, and a play-off for the first title must be held.

As the sixth frame ended yesterday Kimberly was coasting along on a six-run lead. But the Kaws counted twice in the sixth and loaded the bags in the seventh with none out, and Baldy Eggert, clean up hitter, at the plate.

Naldony Scores

This situation was considered too much for Lefty, who had worked more than his accustomed span against the Kaws, and Zinth came in from centerfield to try his hand. Baldy ran the count to three and two and then watched a strike go by. Radder forced Bowers at second, with Naldony scoring the Kaws' last run. Van Drasek walked, but Zelinski fanned. In the eighth and ninth it was three up and three down for the Brewers. Strick and Hofkens singled to left to start the Kimberly fourth. Bowman forced Hofkens at second, but Naldony's peg to first was low and the batter was safe. Horn then doubled to right center, scoring Strick and Bowman. Lamers grounded out and Bowers whiffed.

In the fifth Behr singled and Zinth got a pass. Verstegen sacrificed them along, and Strick walked to clog the sacks. Hofkens missed three, but Sven Bowman's one base blow sent Behr and Zinth home with Kimberly's third and fourth markers. Horn's third hit of the morning plated Strick.

Bongers walked to start the sixth. Naldony muffed Behr's grounder. Bongers taking third, from where he scored on Zinth's single.

Peck's single to open the Kaw third was the first safety by the home team. Weisgerber sacrificed him to second and Naldony walked. Vils forced Naldony and Bowers walked. Hofkens took Eggert's grounder and stepped on third to force Vils for the third out. With one down in the fourth Van Drasek singled, Zelinski flied out and Peck got his second hit. Weisgerber fanned to end the frame.

In the fifth Naldony led off with a Texas leaguer over first. Kappell batted for Vils and hit to Horn at second. Horn tossed to Shortstop Bongers at the keystone sack but Bongers neglected to touch the bag before throwing to first. Kappell was safe at first, but Naldony, taking Bowers' lead, forced him at second, started for the bench. Finally realizing the situation, he dashed for third and was out, first to third. Bowers and Eggert were easy outs.

The Kaws pushed over their two runs in the sixth when Radder and Van Drasek walked and Zelinski singled to score Radder. Van Drasek taking third, Peck forced Zelinski at second. Van Drasek coming home, Weisgerber struck out and Lamers picked Peck first.

Legion Juniors Drop Thriller to Fond du Lac, 16-15

Visitors Score Seven Runs in Ninth Inning Rally To Win Ball Game

AFTER leading 13 to 9 up to the eighth inning, the American Legion Juniors succumbed to a ninth inning rally and dropped a 16-15 decision to Fond du Lac Saturday afternoon at Spencer street athletic field.

Appleton outclassed the visitors all the way behind the stellar hurling of Rieder and Filz and the hitting of Hussey, Ziegler, Rollins, Klitzke and Kloes. In the ninth frame, Fond du Lac chased Appleton off the lot with four runs added to several Appleton errors and counted seven runs to lead 16 and 13. Appleton tried hard in its half of the ninth and scored two runs on three hits but failed to get over the hump.

Saturday's game ended the year for the Appleton squad. Fond du Lac and Oshkosh will play off to see which team will represent this region in the state tournament to be held July 30 and 31.

The contest was a Fox River Valley league tilt, and left the Drugs very much in the running for the second half title.

The home team counted four times in the third on a cluster of hits by Vonvonderon. Holzeck, and Nocketts, mixed with an error and a couple fielders' choices.

The Drugs counted two more in the seventh and finished with a final pair in the eighth. Meanwhile Little Chute could get but six hits off the pitching of Lou Radelet and the Bay rightlander was never in trouble. Each hurler struck out seven.

Vander Meer in 4-Hit Win Over Chicago Squad

Brilliant Young Cincinnati Pitcher Scores 11th Victory

CHICAGO — Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati's young hero of two no-hit games, made his debut at Wrigley field, an auspicious one Sunday by turning back the Chicago Cubs with four hits before a crowd of 30,793 to win, 3 to 1.

It was his eleventh victory, as against three defeats, and enabled the Reds to sweep the three-game series. The setback was the Cubs' fourth in a row.

Staked to a 2 to 0 lead in the second inning when Frank McCormick singled, Ernie Lombardi doubled and Harry Craft tripled against Bill Lee, Vander Meer was the master of the Cubs at all times.

The only run off him was unearned. It came in the sixth inning. Billy Herman walked, went all the way to third when Second Baseman Lonnie Frey booted Carl Reynolds' grounder and scored as Gabby Hartnett grounded out.

Fans Six

The brilliant Cincinnati southpaw fanned six and walked three. The only extra base hit he allowed came off the bat of Frank Demaree, who doubled to start the second inning but did not score. The Reds' other run came in the third when Wally Berger singled and McCormick doubled him home. McCormick wound up with three hits and Berger two.

Lee's defeat, his fifth against nine wins, reversed last Sunday's result at Cincinnati, where Lee bested Vandy. To 3, although neither finished the game. Lee also went out today, for a pinch hitter, and Charley Root pitched the last two frames.
